CLOSING HOURS OF INSTITUTE

Annual Meeting of Teachers Came to An End Friday Afternoon.

NUMBER OF RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY INSTITUTE

Towanda People Commended For Hospitality and Patronage of Entertainment Course—Work of Instructors Very Much Appreciated.

The Teachers' Institute came to a close Friday afternoon after five days of interest and profit. Following is a report of the procedings not published in last week's Reporter-Journal:

Wednesday Morning.

The Institute was opened Wednesday with a splendid half hour's exercise in singing, led as usual by Prof. March, who is an artist in drilling chorus singing. The devotional exercises were led by Prof. L. E. DeLaney, principal of the Sayre schools.

Closely connected with the exercises in music are those of writing. Position in both is of the utmost importance. Following the music period Mr. Bennett conducted exercises in writing. A child should become so accustomed to the correct muscular position of the arm that the arm does not feel right when not properly placed. To show the "Development of Automatic Writing," which was Mr. Bennett's theme, he went through a number of drills which in the child should become perfectly natural. In all teaching have a definite plan which should be carefully thought out. In the development of automatic writing there must be no unnecessary motion. Mr. Bennett illustrated upon the blackboard many difficult exercises and letters. In the first year's school work no words are written, only the development of automatic muscular power. The writing of words grow out of these first movements which are instictive to the child.

To vary the program there was a short time given to singing. Prof. March devoted this period to the study o f music endeavoring to give an idea of rhythm and accent.

Mr. Putnam made several announcements encouraging the purchasing of singing books and books containing instructions in writing.

Mr. Houck took the platform at this period and taught a gem for each to follow:

"Three little rules we all should keep
To make life happy and bright,
Smile in the morning, smile at noon,
And keep on smiling at night."

Mr. Houck gave many pertinent suggestions which each teacher could, with advantage, put into her school work.

At this time the institute body was divided into sections. Ungraded school teachers assembled in the auditorium with Prof. Everett Morley of Monroeton as chairman. Mr. Bennett addressed this section talking on the "Special Instruction in Penmanship." Like his other talks, this one he illustrated by putting upon the board many of the first movements taught. A child is not given ruled paper. We must bring things to the child mind and capacity and not the child to materials used. In paper folding which is a form of manual training there are numerous devices for varying his drill. It is the number of different times that an exercise is done that goes forward in the building of his writing habit. A child must master the process of movements before writing letters. There is a way to teach everything, if one way is not sufficient then try another way. Perfect facility is gained by constant review. The mind must actuate every motion that is made. One must tell a child exactly how to do a thing if he is going to learn to do it right. Truly he should not learn to write from a copy but must first learn the process used in making the copy. The more thought employed in making a letter the better the result and the more it means to the child. The last few minutes were devoted to the answering of question asked by the teachers present. Mr. Bennett has developed a method of writing and not a system. He very generously answered all question very fully. Whenever a class seems dull or heavy give them new physical exercises as rests.

The teachers of the primary, grammar and intermediate schools met in the court room at 11 a. m., with F. S. Woolson as chairman.

The subject, "What, When and How Much in Each Grade," was ably discussed by Dr. M. G. Benedict. The first eight grades of school work determine a pupil's knowledge of fundamentals. It is the most important period of a child's school life. The most experienced teachers should have charge of this work, as here the process of learning is completed. Each teacher should possess a unified knowledge of the course of study of the grades preceding hers. Solidify the work.

Reading in primary grades was discussed by Miss Bertha Espy. A system of phonics was recommended for all primary grades.

Miss Charlotte Lewis outlined her method of teaching a reading lesson as follows: First period the lesson is prepared; second period the story is read for the knowledge of the story, and the third period is used for testing the pupil's understanding of the work.

Dr. Benedict answered question concerning procuring the best results in the district township school containing several grades. Master a reading lesson. Take pleasure in making it a vital part of the pupil's experience. He will meet the newly acquired words as friends. There is a sad lack of teachers in preparing the reading lesson. Meet new words in many different ways.

History was the next subject for discussion. Miss Gore of Athens, procures desirable results by the use of the outline. The use of the text book should not begin until the sixth year. New York state has introduced the book in history work as early as the fifth year. Dr. Benedict answered various questions concerning the use of the book in history teaching. States should be told first by the teachers. Teach biography to all grades. Mrs. Southworth's histories were commended.

High School Department.

The subject for discussion in the high school session was "How Can We Improve High School Teaching?" The principals of various schools discussed the subject ably, showing wherein the present systems were faulty and how the faults might be remedied. Scholarship on the part of the teacher is essential and opportunity and leisure should be afforded her for mental growth.

A specialist for each subject makes the work much more effective and valuable. Cooperation of the home with the school is also an effective measure for the teacher thus understands and sympathizes with the problems of the parents in keeping students in school, and the teacher's work is aided in that the home study of the pupil is increased.

A serious problem which confronts many of the high schools in the county is the arrangement of the course so that one teacher is obliged to teach many subjects. Too many to do justice to the work.

Mr. Teitrick spoke of the responsibility of the high school teacher, in influencing the life of the student, and in making the high school education one of value to him. The teacher should have initiative and originality and through him the student will gain these valuable characteristics. The teacher through intercourse with the parents, with other teachers in the high school, and in observing the work of successful teachers elsewhere, can secure most happy results.

Wednesday Afternoon.

The first half hour as usual was used for a drill in singing. The periods devoted to music are among the most inspiring of the institute program. The results of this profitable instruction will be shown by more interest and better singing in every school throughout the country.

Deputy Superintendent Reed B. Teitrick, Department Public Instruction introduced himself and received a hearty applause from the audience. Among the many problems of the teacher of today Mr. Teitrick chose for the especial theme of his subject, the correct example as shown by a teacher. "The Teachers' Problem" being the subject of his address. The greatest good a teacher can do and the richest bequest she can make to the boys and girls of her school is that of a spotless character. The calling of a teacher cannot be two greatly magnified. To live, and be and do always as a living example is the true problem of a teacher. The advantage of leadership as shown by a teacher is boundless. The teacher must be a model in appearance, manner, and in heart. A large number of children never have the opportunity of getting ideas of order, cleanliness and beauty only as they get them in school, thus a teacher should be a good housekeeper. Besides these things which are so important there are still more for a true teacher to fulfill, that is, a teacher must be an instructor. She must awaken the mental activities, create a desire to know. By playing on the curiosity of a child is a small device for keeping up his interest. All else is vain until a teacher has awakened a desire to know: Teach the child, not the subject nor the branch, nor the course but the child. Back of success is earnest effort. Be rich in knowledge, sympathy and judgment. In short take a happy view of life and be a true example.

Mr. Putnam at this time made a few announcements and remarks of appreciation of Mr. Bennett's work

TROLLEY LINE MAY BE BUILT

Prospects Very Bright For Building From Athens to Towanda.

RESULT OF CONFERENCE HELD IN TOWANDA

Controllers of the Waverly, Sayre and Athens Company, With Party of Towanda Capitalists Planning on Extending Line From Athens.

Prospects are very bright for extending the trolley line from Athens to Towanda. President G. Tracey Rogers, General Manager J. P. C. Clark, Superintendent W. E. Case, Mr. Merkle, and other members of the company owning and operating the Waverly, Sayre and Athens trolley line held a conference with Towanda capitalists in the City of Promise last Friday, and while nothing could be given out on Saturday or Monday, after another conference Monday was stated by those in a position to know that the prospects for building the line from Athens to Towanda are very bright.

Two years ago President Rogers told a representative of this paper that as soon as the money market opened up, the line from Athens to Towanda would be built, and as bonds can now be sold on the markets, it is safe to say that the money needed for extending the line is in sight.

It is expected that a company will be organized in Towanda, and that the new line will be controlled by this company, the Waverly, Sayre and Athens trolley people simply being sponsors in the movement. The Bradford County Trolley Company organized in Towanda some months ago and now holding a 99 years Franchise in Towanda borough may build the entire extension.

The proposed line will parallel the Lehigh tracks from Athens to Towanda, the trolley line crossing the river at Athens on what is known as a "shelf" constructed on the north side of the railroad bridge, at that place. This would save the cost of an expensive bridge. The road would run on the West side of the river, through Ulster, and into Towanda via York avenue. Another route which is looked upon with favor is following the Lehigh to James street, thence across to Hawes street to William to Locust avenue to York avenue thence down Main street. This would take the trolley cars less than two squares from the Upper Lehigh station.

The W. S. & A. company are very anxious the road be build as it will give them a valuable feeder. President Rogers has hopes of reaching Sullivan county with a trolley line, and the extension of the road from Athens to Towanda may be the first move toward reaching this goal. Eventually, if plans do not go wrong, the road will connect with the trolley road running from Harvey's Lake to Wilkes-Barre this making it possible to travel from Elmira to Wilkes-Barre by electricity. This latter link, however, is a good many years in the future.

Much significance is attached to the proposition of extending the line from Athens to Towanda by the power dam project which is now in its preliminary stages.

The dam proposition is in a very discouraging light just at present on account of not being able to find a satisfactory foundation at the proposed site, and it is expected that the investors behind the project will ask for an extension of time on the land options. However, this will not have anything to do with the extension of the trolley line from Athens to Towanda, as the men interested in this enterprise say that if everything goes right, work will be commenced on the extension much sooner than people now expect.

No trouble is anticipated in the securing of a right of way, as the landowners are favorable to the project as it will give them quick transportation to and from Towanda, and the other towns on the line.

The above has all been outlined in these columns before, and now that men with money and energy have been together and acted favorably indications are that the road will be built.

Entertainment and Supper.

An entertainment and New England Supper will be held at the M. E. church at West Franklin on Wednesday evening, Nov. 24. The public is invited to attend.

FORMER TOWANDIANS BACK OF NEW AUTOMOBILE CONCERN

G. W. Buffington, F. K. Sullivan, A. H. Allen and W. E. Decker the Ones.

A recent issue of the Minneapolis, Minn., Journal has this to say of a new automobile concern in that city in which G. W. Buffington, F. K. Sullivan, and A. H. Allen, all former Towandians are very much interested in:

"Veerac is the acrostic name of a light delivery motor car which is to be made in Minneapolis. The Veerac Motor company has been formed, and will begin soon to build near the midway district, a factory to cost about $100,000 and to be running by 1910. The company expects a demonstrator car to arrive in Minneapolis in ten days. Pending the completion of the factory the wagons will be made in various shops in the city.

"The company is capitalized at $400,000, and the first board of directors is made up as follows: President, Vigil Dillin; vice president, W. E. Decker, for several years with the Maxwell-Briscoe company; secretary, W. A. Zaloudek, secretary Minnesota Retail Implement Dealers' association, 579 Metropolitan Life building; treasurer, F. K. Sullivan, director Minnesota National bank; W. A. Parker, master car builder, Milwaukee road; G. W. Buffington, attorney; F. H. Merrill, inventor, formerly of Plainfield, N. J., and for several years with Ingersoll-Sargent company, hydraulic pumps.

"The first letters of adjectives describing the new car form the name "Veerac"—Valveless, Explosion Every Revolution, Air Cooled.

"Having been run 50,000 miles on the road, the new company's demonstrator is expected to make a hit here, when its good condition is shown after such wear and tear as all vacrieties of road give a car.

"The engine is two-cycle, air cooled, of twenty horsepower, capacity 1,000 pounds, hard tires, thirty-six inch wheels. Patents were applied for on this engine in 1905 and the patent was not granted until 1909, the development work going on meantime. Mr. Merrill is also the inventor of the Merrill pneumatic pump and his success in other fields is expected to be duplicated in the self-propelled wagon field. He is the designer of the new car and will manage its construction.

"The transmission of the Veerac is new, as well as the motor, which is said to be an absolutely correct machine. For some time it has been built in the east."

FIRE AT LYKE HOME CALLS OUT DEPARTMENT.

Everything Removed From House. Damage Was Considerable.

Fire originating from a defective flue in the Frank B. Lyke home on the Adams place west of Oak Hill cemetery, called out the Towanda fire department about 6:45 Tuesday night. The blaze started in one of the rooms on the second floor, and was discovered before it gained much headway.

An alarm was given and people who hurried to the scene, assisted in removing practically everything from the house, including stoves, etc. A bucket brigade did heroic work and after a hard struggle quenched the blaze after considerable damage had been done.

The Towanda fire department reached the scene after a hard run of over a mile, but their services were not needed. As the house is outside the borough the fire district, it would have been a hard matter to reach it with the fire hose, and had it not been for the bucket brigade, the building would probably have been destroyed.

Starting Over Again.

Hoyt & Schrier Tuesday secured a temporary injunction from the court restraining the Sayre Water company from shutting off the hydrants or otherwise interfering with the water service in Athens borough. This is another chapter in the case whereby the Water company has promised to shut off the water supply of the borough unless a contract is signed. The other proceedings instituted by Athens borough were dismissed on a demurrer filed by Rodney A. Mercur, Esq., attorney for the Water company, who alleged irregularities in the form of procedure on the part of the defendant borough. He will probably file a demurrer to the injunction granted yesterday.

Big Deficit.

After several weeks of persistent rumors that the West Branch Building and Loan Association of Williamsport, was facing a deficit, matters were brought to a head Saturday, when State Bank Examiner A. L. Taber met the Board of Directors of the organization at the office of Candor and Munson, after which it was announced that the apparent difference between the assets and liabilities was $33,661.84.

CHANGES MADE BY AMENDMENTS

Result of the Adoption of the Amendments to State Constitution.

FEBRUARY ELECTION HAS BEEN DONE AWAY WITH

Terms of Office Have Been Lengthened One Year—Bradford County Judgeship Will Not Take Place Next Year—Outline of Changes.

Official returns of the election of Tuesday, Nov. 2, show that all the amendments except No. 7 have been carried. Among other changes made by the approval of the amendments is that the election of a judge in Bradford county will take place in 1911 instead of next year.

Amendment No. 7 was defeated because the people were opposed to allowing the legislature to enact laws permitting the appointment of election officers in the cities of the state. The defeat of the amendment leaves the present method of electing officers in force.

The vote of Allegheny county was also needed to approve amendment No. 4. The other 66 counties had defeated it by a majority of 15. This was undoubtedly caused by a misunderstanding of its provisions. It increased the terms of Philadelphia magistrates from five to six years so as to give them the same tenure as aldermen and justices of the peace.

The framers of the amendment evidently neglected to make provisions for the judges whose terms expire on the first Monday of January, 1913. District judges must now be elected in the odd-numbered years at the November election. This would bar this class of judges from the election in 1912 and their terms expire almost a year before the 1913 election. Provision was made for the extension of the terms of all judges whose terms expire on the first Monday in January, 1911. They will hold office until January, 1912, so that their successors can be elected in November, 1911. The following is a list of the judges whose terms expire in January, 1913:

James B. MacFarlane and J. J. Miller, Allegheny county; Norris S. Barratt, Philadelphia; James M. Galbrath, Butler; John Ormerod, Potter; Horace Reydt, Carbon; H. Willis Bland, Berks; M. F. Sando, Lackawanna.

The amendments which have been written into the constitution by the approval of the people have for their main purpose the abolishing of the February election. The last February election will be held in 1910. After that all district, ward, borough, city and county officers and district judges will be chosen on the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in the odd-numbered years. Judges of the supreme and superior court may be elected at the municipal election, if circumstances require. On the same day in November in the even-numbered years, all state officers are to be elected.

The first election under the amended constitution will be held in November, 1910. Then a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs, 32 congressmen, 26 state senators and 207 members of the house of representatives will be elected. In the even-numbered years, the election will be known as the "general election" and in the odd-numbered years as the "municipal election." Special elections can be ordered where it is necessary to fill an unexpired term of either a state, county or municipal officer.

In order to work out the scheme of biennial elections, it was necessary to make the terms of all officers an even number of years. The auditor general and state treasurer will serve for four years to put them on an equal footing with the governor, lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs. The four-year term will not apply to Auditor General-elect Sisson and State Treasurer-elect Stober. They will serve for three years from next May and their successors, who will be chosen in November, 1912, will get four-year terms.

The terms of all county officers will be extended from three to four years. The first election of county officers will be held in November, 1911. Under the provisions of the schedule any county officer, whose term would expire on the Monday of January, 1911, will receive an extension of one year.

In the future all city, ward or township officers, whose term of office is three years, will be elected for four years. Where the term is now one year it will be extended to two years. The legislature can change the length of the term, but the tenure must always be for an even number of years.

All officers at the election in February to an office the regular term of which is two years and all election officers and assessors chosen at that time shall serve until the first Monday in December, 1911. Their successors will be elected at the municipal election in November, 1911. All officers chosen in February, 1910, to offices the term of which is four years, or is made four years by the operation of the amendments and schedule, shall serve until the first Monday in December, 1913. All justices of the peace, magistrates and aldermen chosen at the election in February, 1910, shall serve until the first Monday in December, 1913. After 1910, and until the legislature otherwise provides, the terms of the city, ward, borough, township and election officers shall begin on the first Monday of December in an odd-numbered year. These terms now begin on the first Monday of April.

THREE HORSES PERISH IN FIRE IN SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP

Barn on Addison Phelps Farm Burned Yesterday Morning.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the barn on the Addison Phelps farm in Smithfield township on Tuesday morning. The blaze was discovered about 3 o'clock, but the flames had gained such headway it was impossible to stay them.

Three good horses, one hog, together with all the farming implements, hay, grain, etc., were consumed by the flames. A desperate effort was made to save the horses, but the heat was so intense that it was impossible to reach them, and they perished in their stalls.

What caused the fire is a mystery. No one had been in or around the barn since early in the evening. The loss is about $2,500, partly covered by insurance.

COW BUCKED ENGINE OFF THE TRACK.

Derailment on Montrose Branch—Engine Crew Injured.

Says the Athens Evening News: "Louis Geisinger of Sayre, and Bert Cook of Athens, engineer and fireman, respectively, on the Montrose branch of the Lehigh were painfully but not seriously hurt as the result of a derailment Monday afternoon. Geisinger sustained a fractured rib while Cook was badly bruised but escaped any broken bones.

"Near Horseshoe bend the engine pulling a train made up of a freight car, baggage car and a day coach, struck a cow. Instead of knocking the cow from the track, the cow derailed the engine which toppled over and rolled down an embankment. Cook was hurt by the coal from the tender rolling upon him and Geisinger who remained in his cab had his rib broken."

Miss Irene Bonney Showered.

Six of Miss Irene Bonney's young lady friends living in Towanda, paid her a visit at her home in Athens on Monday evening of this week, tendering her a surprise variety shower. Miss Bonney is to become the bride of Louis Driggs, a well known Sayre young man, on Wednesday, Nov. 24.

ANDES STOVES AND RANGES
STOVE WORKMANSHIP
There are a hundred and one little things about making a range that could be left undone, and yet the finished article would look at a glance very much the same. How about the convenience and usefulness? You buy a range, not for a week or a year, but for many years' use, and the value of the finished workmanship of the
is multiplied by the years you use it. Good new iron, fire parts replaceable without removing bolts, every part finished smooth, a plain, simple design, shelf room, oven room, easy control of the fire, the limit of fuel economy---all these and more in the ANDES.

WORK OF THE GRIM REAPER

Mrs. Henry Jones.

On Thursday, Nov. 4, 1909, Mrs. Henry Jones died at her home near Prattville after an illness of only a few hours. In the morning she arose and began her daily duties but soon complained of not feeling well and during the forenoon came to LeRaysville to consult her physician. While here she became chilled and upon her return grew rapidly worse and death came at 10:30 that evening. The deceased was a daughter of the late Philip Phillips and of her family is survived by one brother, Alfred who resides on the homestead a couple of miles north of LeRaysville; her brother, Samuel, and sister, Mrs. John Walters, having died some years ago. At the age of twenty-two, on April 28, 1866, she was united in marriage to Henry Jones and from this union nine children were born: Mrs. Mary Coleman of North Branch, Alfred, deceased, Mrs. V. L. Edsell of Prattville, Mrs. C. S. Edsell of LeRaysville, Sarah and Hattie, deceased, Samuel, William and Gomer. Mrs. Jones was one of the most exemplary women of Eastern Bradford, not obtrusive, but always genial, and her ever wish was to make home an ideal place where her children could come and enjoy themselves as they did when in youth. That her death brings gloom over the family is forcefully brought to the minds of all. The funeral service was held on Sunday at the Prattville church, Rev. King officiating, and the burial was made beside her husband in the cemetery at Neath.—LeRaysville Times.

Mrs. Asa Slingerland.

After several weeks of severe suffering Mrs. Asa Slingerland died at her home in Sylvania on Friday, Nov. 5. Her early married life was spent in Sullivan near the foot of Armenia mountain. Some 15 years ago her husband bought the Smith farm in Sylvania borough, and they lived there ever since. She was a quiet, gentle, home-making and home-keeping woman. She had a heart of great tenderness and was kind to all. Her two sons, Louis and Carl, of Elmira, and her daughters, Mrs. Charles Palmer, of Sullivan, and Mrs. R. T. Carl, of Rochester, were with her at the end. The interment took place in the churchyard of the Gray Valley church by the side of three children who had gone before. The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at the house and were conducted by Rev. A. G. Cameron. The floral offerings from loved ones were very beautiful. Touching and appropriate music was rendered by Mrs. Lizzie York and Floyd I. Bradford.—Troy Gazette.

Mrs. M. A. Case.

Mrs. M. A. Case passed away at her home in West Burlington Saturday at 11 o'clock after an illness of nearly three months. She is survived by her husband, three daughters: Eliza, Elizabeth and Bertha and one son, Meade all at home; also an aged mother, Mrs. A. H. Thomas, and five brothers, Alivin and Meade Thomas at Alba, Henry Boley, and Adolphus of Canton. A short service was held at the house Tuesday at 9 o'clock and a general service at Alba at 1 o'clock. Interment in the cemetery at Alba.

Ulysses Brown.

Ulysses Brown, a highly respected resident of Wysox township, died Thursday midnight at the home of his son, O. W. Brown, near Mercur, after a long illness. He was 78 years, eight months and eleven days of age. Many friends of many years standing will learn of his death with regret. He is survived by a number of sons and daughters. The funeral was held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the house and at 11 o'clock at the Keene Summit church.

Jackson Bowen.

Jackson Bowen, one of Spring Hill's oldest citizens, died at his home in that place on Saturday, Nov. 6, of cancer at the age of about 85 years. He is survived by his wife and several children. The funeral was held at the Spring Hill church at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning; the interment was at Laceyville.

Funeral of James Lockabee, Sr.

Funeral services for the late James Lockabee, Sr., were held at the Lockabee home on Ward avenue Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Father Ruddy, curate of the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, was in charge of the services. Interment was made in the Riverside cemetery.

Mrs. Ellen P. Barrett.

Ellen P., widow of James Barrett, died at her home on Mt. Pisgah Sunday, Nov. 7, aged 65 years. One daughter, Mrs. Rupert, survives. The funeral was held on Wednesday from the Berrytown church and interment was in the Checkerville cemetery.

James Lockabee, Sr.

James Lockabee, Sr., one of Towanda's oldest citizens, died at his home No. 106 Ward avenue Wednesday night, Nov. 10 at 11 o'clock. A week ago Thursday, Mr. Lockabee was stricken with paralysis, and gradually weakened until death claimed him. He was born 93 years ago at the Johnson settlement in New York state, and came to Towanda when he was 18 years of age, living here since that time. For a number of years he was engaged as stage driver, making trips between Towanda and Troy, and Towanda and LeRaysville. The greater part of his life was given to agricultural pursuits in which he was quite successful. Mr. Lockabee was a quiet, unassuming gentleman, who all through life was content to pursue the even tenor of his way. He had many friends who will regret to learn that he is no more. He is survived by his wife, and the following children: James Lockabee, Jr., Mrs. O. S. Simpson, and Miss Rose Lockabee of Towanda; Mrs. E. L. Wherry of Sussex, N. J.; Mrs. Porter of Newark, N. J.; also ten grandchildren, and three great grand children

J. G. SANDERSON DIES IN NEW YORK.

Native of Towanda, Passes Away After Long and Useful Career.

J. Gardner Sanderson, inventor, financier and prominent man of affairs of Scranton, who will be remembered by many of the older residents of Towanda died Sunday in the Hahnemann hospital, in New York, following a three days' illness. He was 70 years of age and by reason of his long activity in the world of business and science stamped the impress of his character throughout the entire valley. He was born in Towanda, Bradford county, February 5, 1840. He was educated in the public schools and later graduated from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N. Y., in 1858. Two years later he was united in marriage with Miss Eliza George Agnes McBrair.

He was a civil engineer by profession and during his life conceived a number of devices that were patented and which brought him both wealth and a prominent position i matters of science. Among his inventions was a rotary kiln used in the manufacture of cement, from which accrued vast benefit in that particular trade. He was a tireless worker and organized among other things the Union Switch and Signal company and was instrumental in making that venture a success. He was a prominent member of the Scranton Engineers' club, the American Society of Engineers and the National Geographical society.

Mr. Sanderson was the son of the late George Sanderson. He is survived by his widow, one brother, Col. George Sanderson, and two sisters, Miss Anna K. Sanderson and Mrs. E. B. Sturges, all of Scranton.

Mrs. J. S. Wilcox.

Mrs. J. S. Wilcox died at her home in Wellsburg Monday night at 11:20 is survived by her husband and three daughters: Mrs. J. C. Brock, Mrs. D. S. Merriam, both of Elmira; Mrs. Harry G. Ferguson, Syracuse; six brothers, Lewis Bolison, California; Squire, of Canton, Pa.; Cornelius, of Roaring Branch, Pa.; Alanson and Henry, of Troy, Pa.; Perry, of Westfield, Pa.; one sister, Jane, in California, and three grandchildren. The funeral was held at the house on Wednesday afternoon at 2'oclock. The Rev. Mr. Eddy, pastor of the First Baptist church, Wellsburg, officiated. Interment in the Mountain Lake cemetery.

Mrs. Louise P. Nevins.

Mrs. Louise Patchin Nevins, aged eighty-one years, died at her home in Athens Friday afternoon, Nov. 12 at 3:45 o'clock, death being caused by a complication of diseases. She was the widow of the late F. A. Nevins and had been a resident of Athens for over fifty years. There survive her, three sons, Mahlon and Alonzo of Athens and Charles of Menominee, Mich. The funeral will be held from the late home on South Main street Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. M. V. Williams, pastor of the Methodist officiating. Interment will be in Tioga Point cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mason.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mason died at 2:15 o'clock Thursday morning at the Robert Packer hospital as a result of injuries she received about three weeks ago. She was at the home of Mr. Reynolds, in Sayre when she fell down stairs and fractured her left hip. As she was 82 years old it was at once realized that death would probably result.—Sayre Times-Record.

Julia Mariah Eddy.

Mrs. Julia Mariah Eddy died at her home in Terry township, Friday, Nov. 6, 1909, of Brights disease, at the age of 76 years, 4 months and 8 days. Funeral services were held Sunday at Evergreen. Interment was made in Laddsburg cemetery.

Mrs. Minnie Cobby.

Mrs. Minnie Cobby died at her home in Sullivan county, Saturday Nov. 6, 1909, aged 45 years, 3 months and 7 days. Death was due to diphtheria and pneumonia. She is survived by her husband and eight children.

Jud Aber.

Jud Aber, oldest son of S. F. Aber of Doty Hill, while returning from work Friday evening, Nov. 12th, was killed by the cars at Wellsburg. Mr. Aber was born on Doty Hill and spent his boyhood days there, but at the time of his death was a resident of Bently Creek. He leaves a wife and one son, Oscar, one sister Mrs. John McHenry of the River road; also one half sister, Mrs. Murry Feathers and one half brother, George Aber of Doty Hill.

POMONA GRANGE.

Synopsis of the Meeting Held at New Albany.

Pomona Grange, No. 23, met with New Albany Grange, No. 205, at New Albany Nov. 4 and 5, Worthy Master Snaw presiding. After the reports of subordinate granges the following questions were discussed:

"What will kill or prevent lice on cabbage?"

"Is there any profit in ducks and geese?"

"Does it pay to feed cows molasses?"

"How would you manage a wife?"

"Have not a large amount of our farmers the hookworm disease?"

"Does it pay to raise thoroughbred fowls?"

Thursday afternoon grange opened with a song. Mr. Lewis, secretary of New Albany grange gave a hearty welcome which was responded to by Worthy Master Shaw. He has been a member of this Pomona Grange for more than 20 years and none can know the value of the friends made or the good that has been accomplished. In report of the deputies A. T. Lilley said he received the unwritten work of this order on March 12, 1874.

Grange closed at 3:15 to open in fifth degree in which the following officers were elected for the next two years: Master, C. P. Shaw, Columbia Grange; Overseer, N. H. Drake, Wyalusing Grange; Lecturer, A. T. Lilley, Open Hand Grange; Steward, E. G. Rogers, Elkland Grange; Gate Keeper, Alvah Erle, Colley Grange; Treasurer, Mrs. Piollet, Wysauking Grange; Secretary, Mrs. F. C. Spear, D. B. Manger Grange; Pomona, Mrs. C. P. Shaw, Columbia Grange; Flora, Mrs. Canfield, Springhill Grange; Ceres, Mrs. Ray Blocher, Springhill Grange; Lady Assistant Steward, Mrs. H. E. Chase, Troy Grange.

Thursday evening the public meeting was opened with a song by the New Albany quartet. Mrs. Piollet read a splendid essay, and State Secretary J. T. Allman spoke on Grange work and necessity of Grange organization. He congratulated the Pomona Grange on its strength and growth through the 19 years he had been state secretary, also the growth throughout the state. He showed the help of the Grange in a financial way, the purpose of higher manhood and womanhood among ourselves, of the confidence gained in the Grange meetings and that on the farm you count for something, while in the city you loose your individuality. That each Patron should get busy and make their influence felt at Harrisburg and Washington. Brother Moscrip gave a short talk on the true object of the Grange which should be kept in mind by each Patron. The committee on resolutions submitted the following report:

Resolved, That we consider it advisable to continue the interrogation of candidates by the legislative committee for the public trust.

Resolved, That we are opposed to ship-subsidies or the contribution to private companies out of the treasury of the United States and that our congressmen be notified and requested to use their best efforts to defeat the bill.

Resolved, That in view of the importance of a knowledge of the subject of Agriculture we believe and recommend that its essentials or first principals should be taught in all the public schools.

Resolved, That we believe it to be absolutely necessary to keep to the front the questions of the Initiative, the Referendum and recall which we consider indispensable to the highest form of representative government.

Resolved, That we commend the action of Grange members in the legislature and others for the effort they made for the equalization of taxation.

Resolved, That we appreciate the effort now being made to settle all international disputes by arbitration and that we consider man killing and war as antagonistic to the highest type of civilization.

Resolved, That we consider it useless and unnecessary expense for constables to attend court every quarter to make their returns; There, we ask that a law be passed allowing them to mail their returns to the clerk of court.

Resolved, That this Pomona Grange, No. 23, endorses the stand taken by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in his campaign for the pure food and pure food legislation.

Resolved, That we as a Pomona Grange express our regret at the untimely death of Dr. Leonard Pearson, and that while we remember his work and the incalculable benefit he was to the farmers of Pennsylvania it is brought to us once more that it is not how long we live, but how well.

Resolved, That we favor the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people believing it would be more in accord with the principles of free institutions.

Resolved, That we hereby express our appreciation for the very excellent and hospitable manner in which we have been treated by New Albany Grange, No. 205, and those residing in the vicinity of New Albany, during this Pomona meeting.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Towanda Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Towanda people testify to permanent cures.

John Coats, farmer, North Towanda, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved to be an excellent remedy in my case. I suffered from backache for a long time and finally other symptoms of kidney complaint developed. I then procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Dr. Porter's Pharmacy and they went at once to the seat of my trouble and gave me relief. I continued taking them and three boxes entirely freed me from the difficulties which had given me so much misery. I cannot speak too highly in favor of this sterling remedy."

MARRIAGE RECORD

Johnston—Corson.

On Saturday evening, Nov. 30, 1909, in Elmira, William H. Johnston and Miss Myrtle R. Corson both of New Albany, were united in marriage by Rev. Saxe of the First Methodist church of that city. The groom is one of New Albany's best known boys, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Johnston, and the bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. U. Corson, is a highly respected young lady. Billy has been employed in Elmira for some time, and the happy couple went immediately to housekeeping in a house he had previously furnished in his business-like manner. Their many friends extend their congratulations and a happy lifelong honeymoon.—New Albany Mirror.

Miller—Kilmer.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kilmer of Sheshequin, was the scene of a very quiet, but pretty wedding on Wednesday, Nov. 10, when their daughter, Miss Christine Kilmer, was united in marriage to Edward Miller of Towanda. Promptly at high noon the bride and groom took their places standing in front of a bank of chrisanthemums and evergreens, where the impressive words which made them man and wife were spoken by Rev. J. B. Davis of Ulster. An elaborate wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Miller took train, No. 1, for an extended trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, followed by the best wishes of a host of friends.

NEWS OF THE GRANGES

Conducted by A. T. LILLEY

A million members of the grange are working to better the farmer's condition. Now is the time to help them to help you.

If people were as careful about their stomachs as they are about catching cold they would have less aches and pains and perhaps live longer.

Honey Creek Grange, Indiana, still has the sheaf of wheat which O. H. Kelley, one of the founders of the order, cut from a nearby field over forty years ago and which he used in teaching the lessons of the order at its organization.

The national grange officers are to be elected at the present session of national grange being held at Des Moines.

Prof. W. J. Spillman says the farm boys have furnished this country with 92 per cent. of its presidents; 91.2 per cent. of its governors; 83.8 per cent of its cabinet officers; 70.6 per cent of its senators; 64 per cent of its congressmen and 55.4 of its railroad presidents. Farmers should be proud of this. But, are the farm boys of today as free from influences that prevent success as those of preceeding generations?

The national master says the funds in the national grange treasury show an increase and the reputation and influence of the organization in the minds of the people and in public affairs has gained in a degree not approached in the past. With an occasional exception, the reason for which can be easily explained, there exists the greatest harmony and unanimity ever known in an organization of the magnitude of the grange. The organization is thoroughly united upon the great national legislative matters it has endorsed and there seems to be ananimity of sentiment in the various states upon state issues urged by the grange in the respective states. The grange increase during past year has been greater than in any other during the past thirty-five, but the limit has not been reached and the year to come should show greater progress than ever before.

The reports from subordinate granges given at recent session of Pomona grange show that the order is thoroughly organized in nearly all parts of Bradford and Sullivan counties and the members are gaining much benefit by the way of the educational and literary work as carried out in all wide awake meetings, in many rural centers. The boys and girls, the fathers and mothers, and the rest of the membership seem to vie with each other in getting the best possible from the thoughtful provisions for progress made by the founders of the society. As might be expected, it occasionally so happens that the vim and vigor necessary to success may be lacking on the part of the membership, but the fact remains that the grange is just what the members make it. If a spoke in the wheel be lost, no matter how, another may be gained and all go on working for the best interests of the "feeders of all." No small defect bythe loss of an officer or member has any disastrous effect because another is always in readiness to be employed. There is no use to try to sprag a wheel when all are ready to put "a shoulder to the wheel."

It is noted that all well informed members of the order are not using direct means to gain the financial benefits designed by the founders of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry but it is also noted that many are living up to the opportunities presented and are getting the reward belonging to their labor. All may do so by following instructions from state grange as given out to all who have a desire to gain a full share of the benefits that may be attained by a close study of the possibilities of grange cooperation either in an educational or economic way.

At recent session of Pomona Grange, A. T. Lilley, Asa Stevens and N. D. Snyder were recommended for reappointment as deputies for Bradford county and Ulysses Bird was recommended for Sullivan county.

The members of New Albany grange made a complete success of their effort to entertain the Pomona grange. All was well done to please and make comfortable everyone who put in an appearance to either give or receive thoughts designed for the betterment of those who are studying the ways and wherefores of the needs of a mixed community of feeders and consumers.

It has been well said: If legislation favorable to agriculture is to be secured we need, first, an enlightened public opinion; second, we must be a unit or a nearly so as possible in what we desire; and third, our demands must be presented to the legislature, state or national, as the case may be, at the proper time in the proper way by competent individuals. The press is a very vital force but the grange men compare impressions of what they have read. They also compare the results of their individual thoughts. They come into touch with the members who read but little, with the citizens who but for these meetings would take no interest in public affairs, and who catch inspiration and begin to feel in some slight degree their obligations to the state. These people inside the Order speak of their discussions to those without the gates. Literature issued by the grange is scattered broadcast and it comes about after awhile that there is a strong demand for reforms that become unified in public opinion, both forceful and telling.

TOWANDA, PA., NOV. 18, 1909.

THE LOCAL OPTIONISTS.

The local optionists held two meetings in Towanda on Wednesday and are beginning the campaign they have been for some time promising. This time it is a local option legislature in the next sesison, and then a local option law. We have heard talk even of a local option governor. Now let all prospective candidates for the legislature get ready to say how they stand on the local option question, for they will be asked to declare themselves. And if the local optionists correctly judge the sentiment of the state these would-be legislators had better say they are for it. But in their zeal for their cause it is easy for the temperance people to overestimate their strength, as they did in the fight for their bill in the legislature last winter. In the election of this year, on Nov. 2, they polled in Bradford county for their candidate for jury commissioner 624 votes, which is a fair showing of what they can do one year with another in this county. They have often polled more votes than that, but oftener less. Six hundred and twenty-four adequately represents their strength under ordinary circumstances. The Prohibition presidential electors in 1884 received 521 votes in Bradford county; in 1882, 536; in 1892, 496; in 1896, 380; in 1900, 380; in 1900, 610; in 1904, 741; in 1908, 648. On occasions when special efforts have been made and favoring circumstances have existed the above figures have been much increased. In 1897 Silas C. Swallow, Prohibition candidate for state treasurer, received 987 votes in this county, and the following year, for governor, 1784 votes. In 1904 W. S. H. Heermans, Prohibition candidate for congress, received 1423 votes. In 1905 W. H. Berry, for state treasurer, received 960 votes. These results show that at favorable times the temperance vote in Bradford county can be considerably increased, and the question is can it ever be sufficiently enlarged to win the election. Surely not unless there is a great upheaval for temperance, and a dissolving of existing party lines such as has taken place in the great changes which have been effected in temperance sentiment in recent years in some other states. But the local optionists claim they will work just such a reformation in Pennsylvania as they have in other localities, and that the hour for it is struck. Here is the task before them in Bradford county, and it is a big one: In the legislative contest of a year ago the two Republican candidates received 6589 and 6723 votes, the two Democratic candidates received 3580 and 3752 votes, and the two Prohibition candidates 453 and 482 votes. To put the local optionists in the majority will call for the desertion from their party's candidates of an army of Republicans and Democrats.

NOT MUCH CHEER.

That they are again triumphant, that this odious Republican machine retains its power to suck the lifeblood from our political institutions is, indeed, a disgrace and a shame. That the electorate of the Keystone State suffers this domination to continue is one of the incomprehensible puzzles of the age.

But there is very little use for a Democratic newspaper to discuss the result of the election when, in an "off-year," the Republican party rolls up a majority approaching one hundred and eighty thousand. What cheer is there in these figures for the Democratic newspaper editor or the Democratic party?—Wellsboro Gazette.

Candidly, there isn't much, and we commend our disconsolate contemporary to a resigned spirit and the solace of true philosophy. Get used to being licked and to staying licked, and then you won't mind it. There is a grim pleasure, we have heard, in taking punishment if you take it in the right way—like a true sport, knowing that it has got to come, and that you are equal to it. It is a kind of pleasure Pennsylvania Republicans don't know much about. If you can't cultivate this elevated mood, join the Republican party, in which cheer is abundant.

The Democrat said a lot more in this editorial from which we have quoted which was not complimentary to the Republican party in Pennsylvania. Well, the Republican party has its faults and—we are sure—its virtues and is much like any and all dominant political parties in states where the majorities are almost always on one side and are heavy. Pennsylvania has been governed by the Republican party for many years, and it is a pretty good state now, and a desirable state to live in. Human nature is just what it is and it is not easy to run a political party on a high moral plane, but Pennsylvania, intensely Republican, is at the same time one of the most prosperous states in the Union and no Democratic state can show a cleaner balance sheet, has a more contented or happier population, a list of better state officers or a more honored or upright governor. Pennsylvania stands pretty well.

If the Democratic party of Pennsylvania would clear itself of some of the charges which are made against it, and show itself less of an appendage to the Republican organization, perhaps the Republican party would profit by the good example and do better.

STATE'S AND COUNTY'S INSANE.

A few days ago the agent of the state board of charities made a report which showed that the accommodations provided for the insane are not sufficient for all the unfortunates, and that the increase in insanity is far beyond the provisions made by the legislature for the care of the patients. Several years ago conditions in the insane asylums of the state were so disgraceful that the voice of protest went up from all sections. The legislature proceeded to repair its inexcusable negligence by voting appropriations for the building of additions to the old institutions. Now we have again the complaint of overcrowding. The asylums have more patients than they can care for, and many of them must lack attention. The Wilkes-Barre Record truthfully says: "It would be far better to make appropriations large enough to give every insane unfortunate in the state the care and treatment and the other comforts he or she deserves than to spend a single dollar for road improvements out of the state treasury. When it comes to a choice between the reduction of physical and mental suffering and such things as road building there should be no question as to which is the more advisable."

We agree with the above. It will be remembered that Bradford county's insane need caring for. The grand jury which convened last August reported on the matter of the keeping of the county's unfortunate wards at the county house as follows: "The insane are kept in a wooden building which is old and will soon have to be replaced. The grand jury recommends that when this is done a county asylum of sufficient capacity to accommodate all the insane that are now supported by the county be erected at the county seat or some place upon the line of the railroad." As far as we know no deffinite step has been taken looking to the execution of the grand jury's suggestion. But the move will soon have to be made, and whatever increase of tar it may involve will be borne by the taxpayers willingly, we have no doubt. Of all the obligations of a charitable nature which call for recognition at the state's or county's hands, none is more imperative or should be more promptly met than those to our unfortunate fellows who have lost their reason.

THE AMENDMENTS RATIFIED.

When this newspaper went to press last week it was believed that the constitutional amendments had all been defeated. We are glad to be able to announce that with the exception of the seventh they have all been ratified and are now a part of the supreme law of the state. The nine amendments which passed were carried by majorities ranging from 15,000 to 28,000, and the seventh was voted down by a majority of 66,523.

The smallest of the majorities by which these amendments have passed is not a creditable reflection on the voters. The issues involved were important. They concerned the matter of our elections, and proposed changes in our highest state law, and yet a large part of the voters paid no attention to them. There is no doubt a large majority of the people were for them, for they were practically unopposed during the campaign, but through indifference the majorities for them are so small that it is seen they might easily have been defeated, as, in fact, they were thought to have been at first. It is an exhibition of negligence and indifference which makes one doubt whether the American citizen values the elective franchise as highly as he is reputed to.

The ratification of the amendments eliminates from our state electoral machinery the spring election and the winter primary, and makes "less politics," for which there has been a demand. It also separates state and national from local issues in the campaigns, and will effect a considerable saving in taxes. It is estimated the people of Pennsylvania will save about a million of dollars a year by the new arrangement, and the annual saving to the county of Bradford and the townships will approximate $2,600.

American railways have a bad name for killing and injuring passengers and employes, but we are glad to know they are improving. The accident bulletin of the Interstate Commerce commission for April, May and June, 1909, shows the lowest record for railroad casualties ever recorded for a quarter. In the whole United States only 99 passengers and employes were killed, and 2,116 injured in train accidents in that period. For the year ending June 30, 1909, the number of passengers killed in train accidents in the United States was 335, in 1908, it was 408, and in 1907, it was 647.

We have never had a president who went on the platform and "talked it over" with the "plain, common people" with better effect than President Taft. He is not a brilliant orator, but he has the faculty of enlightening the popular mind in plain statement.

Fred Newell in the Canton Sentinel says that the hookworm disease exists "in the southern states and Towanda." It is a disease that spreads, and if it has reached Towanda it will get to Canton, sure. We have an idea the latter town is already infected.

CLEAN SPEECH AND CONDUCT.

Homely and common as the text of cleanliness of speech and conduct maay be, it is one uppermost at present in our best moral circles.

Most of the tragedies we have had here and elsewhere come from marital infidelities and general licentiousness. The pistol is a more common personal effect than a Bible or a work on ethics.

There is too much of that lewdness of speech which, indulged in by boys, soon leads to lewdness of conduct. When you notice any group of boys on the street watching the girls you can rest assured they are indulging in thoughts and words prompted by the lower passions.

Take any assemblage of men in club or saloon, in street car or carriage, and it is safe to say that the greater part of their conversation consists of the wit of double entendres or of gossip which would not appear well in print.

It is natural that what people talk the most about they think the most about, and in the end this constant harping on the seamy side of human affairs leads to gross actions.

City life generally is over-feverish naturally, and this can be cultivated into an unrest which finds its pleasures outside the purity of the home life.

Without doubt, there is too much double living, which cheapens the respect for virtue and undermines the whole social fabric by rotting its support—the holiness of a true domestic life. The pure life begins with pure talk.

In ordinary association the smutty story provokes a louder laugh and more enjoyment than the wit and humor of the best intellects. Those who feed on smut will finally wallow in it.

The Spanish proverb says—"you cannot lie down with dogs and get up without fleas." Lewd talk is but the spoken expression of gross acts done in secret.

A man's character is told by what comes out of the mouth, not what goes in. On one occasion at a dinner party, where General Grant was a guest, when the men were left to their cigars, a young man intent upon telling a broad story first looked around and made the common inquiry, "Are there any ladies present?" General Grant quietly remarked, "No; but there are several gentlemen." That story was not related. The rebuke was a just one.

Aside from the morality of the matter under consideration, a man cannot be a gentleman and a retail or wholesale dealer in smut. The cultured gentleman has thoughts above the acts and sayings of the bagnio. The place where the teaching of purity begins is at the cradle, and is pursued by the constant object lesson of a good example.

In an address a couple of years ago Roosevelt alluded to the fact we have mentioned by saying:

If any one of you in the presence of younger boys, and especially the younger people of your own family, misbehaves yourself, if you use coarse and blasphemous language before them you can be sure that these younger people will follow your example and notice your precept. It is no use to preach to them if you do not act decently yourself. You have got to feel that the most effective way in which you can preach is by your practice. I want to see each man able to hold his own in the rough work of actual life outside, and also, when he is at home, a good man, unselfish in dealing with wife, or mother or children. Remember that the preaching does not count if it is not backed up by practice. There is no good of your preaching to your boys to be brave if you run away. There is no good of your preaching to them to tell the truth if you do not.

There is the gist of the whole matter. Example counts. There will be no evil youths, save natural degenerates, in a pure and moral community. This fact comes to every household. As it is, so will the whole community be.

The home is the centre of all influence. The school and pulpit are but aids; for in the former is the potency of example, in the latter the limited force of precept.

MALE TEACHERS IN SCHOOLS.

With no thought at even so much as a hint of disparagement of the achievements and qualifications of the achievements and qualifications women as school teachers, yet the wisdom of State Superintendent Schaefer in his expressed concern over a lessening number of men teachers in the public schools is apparent. The fact that in less than ten years the number of male teachers in the schools of the state has been reduced by over 1,300 is a matter greatly to be deplored, for the necessity of men as teachers in certain positions and in certain grades, and before certain classes, cannot be denied, both as a matter of influence and discipline. Though Pennsylvania has increased her appreciation of the profession and service of public school teachers by advancing their salaries, yet it remains to be seen very plainly that further advances must be forthcoming in order to attract to and hold in the work the material so vitally necessary for the best results, let this be men or women says the Williamsport Sun in which we fully concur.

Those persons who think that Tammany received its death blow in last week's election should not forget the family to which the tiger belongs and the fact that cats have nine lives, says the Binghamton Republican.

COMING FARM SCHOOLS.

The dates and places where and when the annual farmers' institutes will be held in this county have already been given in these columns. No matter how good a thing is offered even to intelligent people, there seems to be always a disposition on the part of some to criticise the same adversely, yet hundreds of people get valuable information by unconscious absorption. Time and again we have observed men in all walks of life practising many things which they had formerly condemned. We know of a number of farmers who a few years ago refused to accept any of the theories laid down by agricultural scientists that are today successfully practicing just what they once declared could not possibly be any earthly good. Most of us run in ruts and refuse to get out of them, no matter how much we might profit by so doing.

Every new development, everything by way of improvement, every step made in the direction of advancement, seem to always be retarded by the skeptical. The farmer today practicing the methods of 25 or 30 years ago is recognized by everyone as carrying on his avocation at a loss, and at the same time the up-to-date man hardly realizes that the new methods, machinery and implements he is using were all things that he condemned when they were first introduced or put on the market.

In discussing the results of holding farmers' institutes in Bradford county with various tillers of the soil, we find many opinions expressed. Most of them agree that off-hand talks in a sort of a conversational way by the instructors are far more appreciated and helpful than long addresses in which technical terms and big words which the common people do not understand are too often largely used. Others have found greater benefits from the question box but even this method of instruction is by some criticised while others say the greatest benefit they derive from attending the institutes is from talks with instructors before the sessions begin or after they are over.

There is no doubt but that a sort of experience meeting in which views, observations and practices of the men taking part therein are given while the institute instructors are present, would be most helpful. If there is anything by way of errors in theory or practice mentioned in an exchange of views, the instructors could feel to correct them.

At all events, we hope that the Bradford county farmers will turn out to the coming farmers' institutes and secure all of the new ideas possible. They will doubtless find many that will be helpful to them. The instructors and those attending the institute should do everything in their power to make them the best kind of a farm school possible.

CAUSES OF TYPHOID.

Autumnal typhoid still has a way of appearing at customary seasons in well nigh every region of the country. The health authorities in New York find it this year rather worse than usual; it appears in the dwellings of the well-to-do as freely as in the shacks of the poor. Sanitation does not prevent it, that is, not what we generally call sanitation. It is an intestinal disease, conveyed by drink or food. The old theories of bad air, sewer gas and damp houses have not now much standing. It is feared that some of the later theories do not explain all the points about Autumn typhoid. The housefly does not. The condition of the water supply, as being different in summer and winter, does not. A plausible explanation is that the profuse prespiration with which in summer the body eliminates a large amount of disease breading matter, is reduced to a minimum almost instantly when the cool days begin. The kidneys and bowels, unaccustomed to the task, are burdened with dangerous materials and unable to perform the task of elimination. It is at least common knowledge that typhoid is most prevalent when the cool weather sets in.

Some people have the highest respect for reporters, and justly so. Among this number may be mentioned Judge Gaynor, Mayor-elect of New York City, who bears testimony to the straightforwardness and honor prevailing among newspaper men with whom he came in contact during the campaign. This is what he says, and the language may be applied to many places, including the Bethlehems, as well as New York: "I have nothing for the newspapers today except that I desire to express my warmest thanks and appreciation to you, the reporters of all of the newspapers, who have been calling daily at my house. Not a confidence broken, not a mean thing. I was told that I ought to have a manager and turn you over to him, but I knew it was not necessary. I was once one of you. I hope your editors will publish this."

New York city is said to have taken in ten millions of dollars during the Hudson-Fulton celebration and yet you hear every resident of that big town say he was glad when it was over.

We had best call the continued fine weather we have been having our Indian summer, because then we will be sure to have had one. The charming season that goes by that name is an uncertain and elusive "spell of weather," and some years we don't get it at all.

HOW LITTLE WE KNOW.

We do not know much. When we look at the switchboard of a central telephone exchange we are very sure that man has learned a great deal about the conductivity and resistivity of wires, and we are awestruck at the human brain that planned and wrought out that complicated network of circuits and plugs and insulated clews to a great section of the hemisphere. But when it is a matter of the twitching threads of nerves that carry messages from our own brains to the tips of our fingers and the bottoms of our feet, we find that the doctors can prescribe rest and a glass of milk with a raw egg in it, but they can tell us very little about these astonishing telegraph and telephone systems that monopolize our own bodies and make our lives either "one grand, sweet song" or a long-drawn torment.

We look at a locomotive furiously running, and we say again. "What hath man wrought?" as we think of the mechanical development since a man in England watched the steam lift the lid of a kettle. Gladstone said that to him the locomotive and the violin were the standard marvels. Even the designer of a "Mallett compound" must wonder at the finished product as it charges past him with a string of laden freight cars in its wake as long as a comet's tail. But when we have stood and gazed in wonderment at the locomotive, and have patted each other on the head for the very fine fellows we are to have thought of such a thing without any help from the Creator we do not know what makes a man get up in the morning or cause a baby to crawl about the carpet and finally to stand and to walk. We read the riddle of steam; we cannot solve the enigma of human life.

Or perhaps we thrust in our heads impertinently at the window of the ship's cabin where the wireless operator with his vibrant earmuffs parries and thrusts with the demons of the upper air for the sunlight or the screaming gale. And we say, "Surely nothing can be more wonderful than that," and then some know-it-all at our elbow turns and superciliously explains to the girl beside him just how it is done, and how forty-nine or fifty-seven other men were the real inventors, but Marconi was lucky enought to get the credit and the patent for an idea which was floating about in the air subject to anybody's capture. And so, thanks to the supercilious young man, we know just how words can be thrown 3,000 miles and caught on attenuated aerial clotheslines as neatly as a lacrosse player traps in his racquet the ball that is flung clear across the field.

Where the mystery of the wireless is as an open book, that he who travels by land or sea may read, two people may stand the width of the world asunder and one of them knows what is in the mind and the heart of the other—and how is that done? "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire, unuttered or expressed, and the spiritual aspiration may find out another human being, or it may mount to heaven, and no man has anything to say about the mystery of its itinerary. We are children crying for the light when it comes to the question of understanding the mode of intercommunication between a soul and a soul.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FOOT

For Six Months his Suffering was Beyond Words—One Mass of Irritation and Itching was Dreadful—Slept Only from Sheer Exhaustion—Almost Out of His Mind—After 24 Hours' Use of Cuticura Slept Like an Infant and Then was

CURED IN ONE MONTH BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I am seventy-seven years old and one day, some years ago, I fell from a step-ladder, bruising my heel. In a few days I could not walk. I called in a doctor and inside of a week erysipelas set in. The doctor had not cured me of that when I was taken with eczema from head to foot. I was sick for six months and what I suffered tongue could not tell. I could not sleep day or night because of that dreadful itching; when I did sleep it was from sheer exhaustion. I was one mass of irritation; it was even in my scalp. The doctor's medicine seemed to make me worse and I was almost out of my mind. I read of Cuticura and sent my wife to the druggist, who was a member of my lodge of Odd Fellows, for a set of the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them persistently for twenty-four hours. That night I slept like an infant, the first solid night's sleep I had had for six months. I was not afraid to use plenty of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap with hot water and in a week's time I was able to put on my clothes again. In a month I was cured. From that day to this I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too highly. I may add that I have a very heavy head of hair which I owe to Cuticura. W. Harrison Smith, R.F.D. 2, Mt. Kisco, N. Y., Feb. 3, '08."

A single set of the Cuticura Remedies is often sufficient for the treatment of the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, rashes and irritations, with loss of hair, from infancy to age, when all other remedies fail. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.), and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

IS THE VISITOR WELCOME IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL?

In the experience of the writer there is nothing more deplorable in the condition of the public schools than that which has been voiced by certain of his acquaintances. "I visited the school three times," said one good lady, "and each time I was made to feel that I was not welcome. I am not going again."

For a teacher to make the patrons of the public schools feel that they are not welcome at the regular school sessions is almost incomprehensible. Fellow teachers, next to our pupils, their parents are the best friends of the school. They certainly have the right to visit the school and for a teacher to discourage their doing so, not only shows a lack of courtesy but also a short sightedness which amounts almost to blindness. Teachers' professional reputations rest almost entirely with the patrons of the school, who certainly can not make a just estimate unless they visit the school. Trouble with a patron comes most frequently from a misunderstanding which he might have prevented by a few visits to school. In addition to this the teacher who shows that he does not wish visitors is evidently the one who fears to have his work examined. This may be due to a lack of confidence in himself or to a lack of ability. If it is because of the former, visitors will help him to overcome his fault; if it is because of the latter, he should not be teaching.

The writer certainly does not mean to encourage young people to visit the school for the purpose of amusement. Anyone visiting his school will be gladly received but their presence will not be allowed to make any change in the regular work. It is understood that those who come wish to see the school in actual operation and that any questions concerning its work are only in order outside of school hours.

Patrons, it is only with your co-operation that schools can be made most successful. Why not call once in a while and let the teacher know that you are interested? It will act as a stimulant to better work in school on the part of teacher and pupils, and will certainly do you no harm.

TEACHER.

EDITOR VS. MILLIONAIRE.

The editor of the Russell, Ky., Democrat, is responsible for the following: "I'd rather be a country editor and chase around for news, before I'd be a millionaire with wealth I could not use. I'd rather be a printer with patches on my breeches, than be a master of finances, with all my thoughts on riches. I'd rather eat my modest meal, digest the same with ease, than sit down to a royal feast with stomach-ache like John D's. To romp and frolic with my kids around our cheerful hearth, with their mother for the audience to help enjoy the mirth, is better than to move about in high society, where dress and jewels false make life a mockery. 'Tis true, the printer's cash gets short and duns come in a hurry, but the happy fellow does not fret-he lets the dunner worry. He always has a conscience clear, a disposition sunny; he knows that life has other joys besides the chase for money. For the molder of opinion is a happier man by far, than the man who owns a palace, a yacht and private car. And when he goes to his reward he knows that all is well, while the man who makes his wealth his God may some day wake in h-l."

The Grangers have put themselves on record against the Aldrich central bank movement and are "unalterably opposed." Senator Aldrich spoke in favor of the plan at Des Moines, Iowa, on Thursday of last week, and on the following morning the National Grange which was in session in that city, passed the following resolution: "Resolved, by the National Grange, in forty-third annual session assembled and representing one million of conservative, liberty-loving people, that we are unalterably opposed to any legislation by congress looking to the establishment of a great centralized bank." Pennsylvania was represented by "Farmer" Creasy, who offered the resolution. It was adopted by an unanimous vote. The Grangers seem to know what they don't want, and thus early in the discussion they have reached the conclusion that the great central bank is not a good thing.

THE FINE COLEMAN MEMORIAL DEDICATED.

Beautiful Parish House, Gift of Mrs. Cummings is Formally Opened.

The Coleman Memorial Parish House at Sayre was dedicated Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The large auditorium on the second floor of the magnificent building was filled to overflowing and many were unable to gain admittance. In an appropriate address the building was presented to the parish and the diocese by David J. Pearsall of Mauch Chunk, the personal representative of Mrs. Mary Packer Cummings, who caused the building to be erected in the memory of the late Bishop of Delaware, the Rt. Rev. Leighton Coleman, D. D., a former rector of the Church of the Redeemer of Sayre. Previous to the dedicatory ceremonies an elaborate lunch was served in the Guild rooms on the first floor of the building, of which many partook.

The building which was dedicated is situated on the north side of Wilbur avenue at the corner of Hayden street. The construction work began in the Fall of 1908, and the work has just nicely been completed. Some trouble was experienced with the tower and it was necessary to take part of it down, but the difficulty was overcome, though it caused some delay in completing the edifice.

The building is about 55x100 feet extreme dimensions the main building being 50x80 feet inside measurements, and consists of a basement, main floor auditorium floor and gallery. The basement provides a gymnasium, which occupies the greater part of the south side, a locker room containing about 200 lockers, the necessary shower baths, steam rooms and toilets, and also a directors' office, all of which are approached from the outside by separate entrances to the main stairways which leads from the principal entrance of the building.

The north side of the basement provides a game room, a conversation room for men, and the coal cellar and boiler room, the latter containing the apparatus for the heating of the building and rectory adjoining. The boiler room also provides hot water for use for the entire building and the rectory.

The materials used in the erection of the structure are blue stone, laid in rock face, broken range work, trimmed with Indian lime stone. The interior is plastered throughout with sand finished plaster work, and the interior woodwork is of chestnut, stained in the colors of old English oak. The architectural treatment is that of the English sixteenth century gothic.

The furniture and equipment of the building is complete in every particular, having been most carefully studied by the rector, Rev. H. L. Hannah. Watson and Huckel of Philadelphia, were the architects and J. M. Ashton of Sayre, was the contractor.

Charged With Larceny.

John Dickerson, who has been in jail and serious trouble several times, asked Chief Miller to arrest him yesterday for he feared the tremens. After placing him in the lockup, the chief learned that Dickerson had been stealing and selling various articles. A gold watch belonging to a lumber man named VanAuken from Laquin, had been stolen and pawned, and two suits of underwear, a quart of paint, and a quantity of pork had also passed through Dickerson's hands. Complaints were made charging him with larceny, and when he was arraigned before 'Squire Meredith he pleaded not guilty and will be given a hearing this morning between the hours of 9 and 11.

Colt Accidentally Shot.

A three years old colt owned by Francis Dougherty of Rome township, was accidentally shot and killed by William Rice of Rome, Monday morning. Mr. Rice with a party of friends hunting, and one of the hunting dogs was attacked by the horse which was in a pasture. To drive the horse from it's attack on the dog. Mr. Rice prodded it with the muzzle of his gun when the weapon was accidentally discharged, inflicting a wound which caused death in about ten minutes.

Of Interest to Orchard Owners.

State Zoologist H. A. Surface desires to establish a demonstration orchard at a distance of 10 to 12 miles apart throughout the fruit growing sections of the state. There should be in these orchards if possible both old and young trees of apples, peaches, pears, plums and cherries. He would like to set out some young trees, also the orchard should be conveniently located to the general public. Persons having suitable orchards and desiring a demonstration orchard should make immediate application to Mr. Surface at Harrisburg, giving all particulars. In addition to my former territory. All the uninspected territory in Bradford County west of the river has been assigned to me and I will inspect the same soon as possible. E. L. McNett, State Orchard Inspector, Powell, Pa.

AMENDMENTS WILL SAVE A MILLION A YEAR.

State Officials Estimate Spring Election Cost State That Much.

Abolition of the February election, as a result of the adoption of the amendments to the state constitution in the recent election, will result in a direct saving of at least $1,000,000 a year. This is the estimate of officials at the capitol who are familiar with such matters.

The state itself will save approximately $150,000 a year by reason of the doing away with the uniform primaries in January. The counties are reimbursed from the state treasury for the primary expenses, and the bills for 1907 aggregated $140,156.75. and for 1908, $134,831. As not all the districts hold uniform primaries in January, some exercising the option to retain the old system and pay their own bills, it is estimated that the total cost of nominating officers for the February election is $200,000.

Expenses of the February election, including pay of election officers, rent of polling places, printing of ballots, advertising of proclamations, etc., are paid by the counties, but there is sufficient data at the capitol to make it certain that the aggregate cost is not less than $375,000.

Thus the official part of the January primaries and the February election represent a total outlay of $575,000. The expenditures of party committees and candidates vary greatly, but it is regarded at the capitol as a moderate estimate to make these figures at least as large as the official expenditures, thus bring the aggregate up past the $1,000,000 mark.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.s

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP SUED FOR DAMAGES.

David A. Swingle Brings Suit For Loss of Horse and Wagon.

Through his atortneys, Lilley & Wilson, David A. Swingle, the Ulster liveryman on Tuesday brought suit in Bradford county courts against Smithfield township for $1,000 damages for the loss of a horse, and wagon, and personal injuries, sustained in driving off a bridge in the darkness some weeks ago.

Mr. Swingle was hired by E. P. Crowe, a drug salesman, to drive him from Ulster to East Smithfield village. On the return trip they were overtaken by darkness and rain, and while proceeding along the road at a point between Arthur Titchin's and Henry Rowe's, the horse walked off a small plank bridge which crossed a brook. The horse was drowned in the waters of the swollen brook, and the wagon was demolished. Both Mr. Swingle and Mr. Crowe were severely injured, it is alleged, and Mr. Crowe's sample case was practically ruined by the water into which they were dumped.

Mr. Swingle in his action for damages sets forth that the bridge was not provided with guard rails, nor with guide logs along the side, and that the township was negligent in not providing the structure with such.

Mr. Crowe will begin action separately from Mr. Swingle's claim, it is expected.

Beautiful Church Interior.

A correspondent to this paper writes: "Sunday many people came miles to see the beautiful little church at Cummiskey, this county. Lorengia C. Scattaglia of Philadelphia, one of the most noted artists in America, completed the pictures for St. Francis church and put them in. To say they surpass the greatest ideas of anyone in the parish is saying very little for the great artist. Mr. Scattaglia is one of the artists who worked on the White House at Washington. The parishoners of St. Francis should feel justly proud of their beautiful little church as well as of their pastor, Rev. J. J. O'Donnell, who in the past year spent $3000 in beautifying their church. In the past year the outside has been repainted and the inside repainted, decorated and seventeen beautiful paintings, consisting of the Twelve Apostles, Ten Cherubs, the Crucifixion, the Immaculate Heart, and the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus. New carpets and a new furnace have been added, making the edifice comfortable as well as beautiful."

Stops Neuralgia Pains

The shooting, tearing pains of neuralgia are caused by excitement of the nerves. Sciatica is also a nerve pain.

Sloan's Liniment, a soothing external application, stops neuralgia pains at once, quiets the nerves, relieves that feeling of numbness which is often a warning of paralysis, and by its tonic effect on the nervous and muscular tissues, gives permanent as well as immediate relief.

One Application Relieved the Pain.

Mr. J. C. Lee, of 1100 Ninth St., S. E., Washington, D. C., writes: — "I advised a lady who was a great sufferer from neuralgia to try Sloan's Liniment. After one application the pain left her and she has not been troubled with it since."

TOWANDA IS IN ON ELMIRA PERJURY CASE.

Man in Bother Over Affadavit Made in City of Promise.

Says the Elmira Star-Gazette: "A memoranda has been placed on the Supreme Court record in reference to the affidavit recently made by John Scott, Jr., a Lackawanna trainman, who claims he was promised $75 for every $5,000 given in a verdict against the company to Elizabeth B. J. Hammond if he would shift his testimony in favor of Mrs. Hammond's case.

"Mr. Scott made the affidavit in Towanda, Pa. He claimed the proposition was made him by Attorney Charles H. Knipp, Mrs. Hammond's counsel, and that no part of the money agreed upon has been paid. Upon the strength of the affidavit the Lackawanna company secured a new trial of the action.

"Mr. Knipp Saturday caused to be entered upon the record a document which charges that the affidavit made by Scott contains evidence for a charge of perjury Scott. It is further stated that the evidence has been stated to District Attorney Bogart, but has not been brought to the attention of the grand jury because of a question about jurisdiction in this county.

"The jurisdiction is complicated by the fact the affidavit was made in Towanda, used in a motion term of court in Binghamton and then filed here."

Native of Towanda.

Among the priests here this week to attend the silver jubilee of the Very Reverend Father Coroner, pastor of the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, was the Rev. Michael H. Dunn, chaplain of the Mercy hospital in Wilkes-Barre. Father Dunn is a native of Towanda, and one of the veteran priests of this section. On Sept. 29, last year he celebrated the fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. For many years he had charge of the parishes of Troy, Canton, and Ralston, He was stationed eight years at Great Bend, Susquehanna county, and a number of years in the Cathedral at Scranton, and has been for a number of years the Chaplain of Mercy hospital in Wilkes-Barre. He is held in kind remembrance by many people in this section.

Towanda Tobacco Brings Fair Price.

Tobacco growers on the Towanda flats have sold their crops at prices ranging from four to eight cents per pound. The quality of the tobacco is good this year, but owing to heavy frosts the plants were stunted. Andrew Johnson, who works the Mercur tobacco farm, has finished his seventh year of growing the weed, and his average for the seven years is eleven cents per pound, which is considered very good.

Big Crop of Apples.

S. B. Dorsey of Powell, has one of the largest and finest crops of apples in the central part of the county. From a small orchard he picked enough to make 200 gallons of cider and still leave him with over 200 bushels of perfect apples for the market. There are several varieties, and some of them are exceptionally large, being about six times as large as an ordinary apple.

After Speareasies.

When 15 alleged speakesy keepers were arraigned before a Scranton alderman, ten of them were allowed to be dismissed, following their signing an agreement to discontinue the illegal practice. Five others were held for court. The Retail Liquor Dealers' Association is determined to break up the speakeasy business at Scranton.

AGED ALBIN WANZO DEAD FROM INJURIES.

Windham Township Farmer Died at Packer Hospital Yesterday.

Albin Wanzo, a well known Windham township farmer, died at the Packer hospital in Sayre Friday morning at 2:15 o'clock, from injuries received five days previous.

He was assiting in running a threshing machine into the barn. On the front of the machine was a short pole by which it could be attached to a traction engine. A team was hitched to rear of the machine and Mr. Wanzo held the tongue, intending to steer it inside the barn. One of the front wheels struck a stone, which caused the tongue to move suddenly and violently. It struck Wanzo's leg and caused a fracture of his hip.

He was taken to the Packer hospital at once and his injury attended to, but congestion of the lungs set in and he rapidly sank under the disease until he died Friday morning. He was 76 years of age ,and such fractures to men of advanced years frequently result fatally.

He leaves four children, Mrs. Stella Sherman of Litchfield, Charles, Paul and Elmer of Windham. He was a soldier of the Civil war, serving in Co. B, 171st Pa. Vols. He was a member of Perkins Post, G. A. R., of Athens. The funeral will be held on Sunday.

UNLUCKY MAN.

Burton Ellsworth of Wyalusing, Has Had More Than His Share.

Burton Ellsworth of Wyalusing township, who is in the Packer hospital being treated for a compound comminuted fracture of the right leg sustained on Wednesday of last week, has had more than his share of broken bones, in fact he is the unluckiest man in Wyalusing township, if not the county.

He seems to be persistently followed by hard luck. This is the third time he has sustained a fracture to a leg. Twice he has suffered a fractured arm. Twice he had his collar bone broken and he has lost one finger in a gunning accident.

The injury of this week is probably the most severe of all. At the Packer hospital it was necessary to remove fragments of bone and then clamp the good ends of bones together with silver bands. Recovery will require many weeks and the leg will be permanently shortened.

About the Wednesday Club.

Saturday's Philadelphia North American in its report of the Federation of Woman's Club convention at Harrisburg, has this to say about the Wednesday Club of Towanda: "The Wednesday Club, of Towanda, which is represented by Mrs. William Little, was organized in February, 1892, and joined the federation in 1897. It was first known as the Literary Circles. It soon broadened its purpose and took in the studies of history and art. It has done splendid civic work, and has committees for the promotion of forestry and horticulture, juvenile court legislation and civics. Its reciprocity and library committee has done notable work for the advancement of the community.

An Aristocratic Animal.

John Elsbree, proprietor of the Milanhurst stock farm at Milan has shipped to the Winters stock farm at Smithboro, the finest four months old Holstein-Friesan bull calf ever sent out of Bradford county. The animal has an aristocratic lineage being a grandson of Aggie Cornucopia Pauline, the champion four years old butter cow of the world, and was sired by Mercedes Julip Peterje Paul. He is a half brother to King Segis, the head of the celebrated herd of the Moyerdale stock farm at Syracuse, N. Y.—Athens News.

Big Potato.

C. Wanzo, one of the progressive Windham township farmers, comes to the front with a potato that leads them all for weight, it tipping the scales at 3 1-4 pounds. Mr. Wanzo brought the potato to this office Tuesday and states that he raised from three acres six hundred bushels of tubers. To get an idea of some of the potatoes that he raised he says that it only takes 25 to fill a bushel basket.—Athens Gazette.

BRADFORD COUNTY ORCHARDS WILL BE GREATLY BENEFITTED

State is Offering Aid to Those Who Have Neglected Fruit Trees.

Probably no one source of income to the farmers of Bradford county is more generally neglected than their orchards. Decayed, decaying and superfluous wood has been so long allowed on the trees, and the insect pests given full sway that the annual yield of fruit is a mere bagatelle of what it ought to be and would be under a better system of pruning, spraying, etc.

While this great annual waste is not confined to this county it is none the less real. To correct it and aid the owners in realizing dollars from their orchards where now they get quarters or dimes, the State Department of Agriculture is offering the services of a trained horticulturist in improving the present orchards and planting new nes.

Demonstrations in pruning, spraying and planting will be given in the various orchards selected for the purpose. The state further proposes to furnish, also free, the material for spraying. Certain things will be expected of the owners, such as the furnishing of the spray pump, meeting the state demonstrator at the train and furnishing help in pruning, spraying and fertilizing when necessary to bring about results.

To avail themselves of the state's offer, owners must at once apply to Prof. H. A. Surface, Harrisburg, stating the number and variety of their trees, their location, what apparatus for spraying they have and their willingness to aid the demonstrator in making the work of the greatest possible good to the public.

Suffering From Injuries.

A New Delight— Foods Shot from Guns

There are myriads of homes where these foods are not new—these delicious Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice.

The people who know them are already serving seventeen million dishes per month.

But to millions of others these foods remain a new and unknown delight. And to those this appeal is addressed.

The appeal is to try one package—just for the children's sake.

Serve it tomorrow morning. Listen to what they say. Then ask them what food they want next.

Wheat and rice are common foods, prepared in numerous ways. See if this way is best.

We make all sorts of cereal foods, so it matters little to us which kind you prefer.

But it means much to you to get the food that you like best. See if Puffed Wheat is that food.

Puffed Wheat—10c

These are the foods invented by Prof. Anderson, and this is his curious process:

The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees.

That fierce heat turns the moisture in the grain to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

Puffed Rice—15c

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles.

The kernels of grain are expanded eight times. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grain.

One package will tell you why people delight in them. Order it now.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

In Mr. Bennett's last talk in his very helpful series of instruction he gave many useful hints. A child must have an intelligent idea of what is wanted of him. Each one in her own school room has her own problems to solve. In teaching writing there is always a specific purpose. By dictating the movements of the writing one is building a foundation which will enable the child to later write with greater facility. Every year a better foundation is made for that year. A vast fund of exercise work is always at hand. A new thought in connection with a nold exercise makes it different and thought must be back of every act. Mr. Bennett illustrated upon the blackboard how words may be built up by using combinations of the movements already learned. The child soon grasps the similarity of the letters and realizes how a new one may be made from those known before. Your success will depend on how you teach the knack and not the form, the form will take care of itself. Mr. Bennett will be pleased to answer any questions sent to his home.

After a short exercise in singing Mr. Putnam introduced Mrs. Walter Smith of Wilkes-Barre who represents the Congress of Mothers. There are state organizations in about two-thirds of states of the union. The aim of the Congress of Mothers is to do something for the welfare of the chuld. The Pennsylvania Congress of Mothers has done great work to prevent infant mortality. Classes have been organized where mothers are taught the care of children. By bringing the home and the school together the parents often are brought nearer the school and its interests. Mrs. Smith told several instances where the probation system has been of great value. There is an advantage and a great opportunity in having these mothers meetings in connection with the school. Parents and teachers should pull together, thus each helps the other. Mothers of all classes are benefited by the meetings and very many improvements have been inaugurated in a great many places. These improvements are for the children as well as the parents.

Miss Catherine Lynch, an instructor in the Rochester School of Elocution delighted the institute with a reading of Henry VanDyke's famous "The Other Wise Man." Miss Lynch showed much skill in her rendition, being very forceful and accomplished in her delivery.

At the close of the session there was a meeting of the Alumni of the Mansfield State Normal school.

"Her American Husband."

As a departure from the time tried lecture or musical entertainment which has always been the evening attractions during the Teachers' Institute, Superintendent Putnam this year provided a legitimate theatrical offering, a musical comedy entitled "Her American Husband" which was given at the Keystone Opera House Wednesday night. Walter Cluxton and company presented the comedy which judging by the applause and laughter greatly pleased the large audience. It was a good entertainment and proved a delightful change after two lectures.

Thursday Morning.

The fourth morning of the Bradford County Teachers' Institute was opened promptly at 9 o'clock by singing led by Prof. March, who as usual, conducted this service with spirit and enthusiasm.

The principal of the Troy schools, William M. Denison, had charge of the devotions of the morning. Supt. Putnam at this time made several announcements which were for the notice of the teachers assembled.

As Mr. Benedict was crowded from the program Wednesday afternoon, he was the first speaker Thursday morning. His subject was the same as he had chosen for his other address, "A Great Celebration." In his interesting way he very clearly pictured and described the great Hudson-Fulton celebration which has been of such world wide interest. Surrounded by the luxuries of today it is very difficult for us to appreciate the time when there were not steam boats and many other wonderful discoveries which were so evident in this exhibition. Dr. Benedict carefully told of many of the natural characteristics of the great Hudson river and of the mystic pagent of boats which moved so impressively upon its waters. He also enumerated the numerous important cities and other interesting places along its banks. The first trip made up the Hudson on a steam boat was delightfully portrayed by Dr. Benedict. The names of Henry Hudson and Robert Fulton are forever linked together, although their lives and hopes and achievements were very different, they left a rich heritage.

After a pleasing introduction made by Superintendent Putnam, Superintendent of the Public Schools of Wilkes-Barre James M Coughlin, came upon the platform. "The Revival of the Art of Teaching" was Superintendent Coughlin's subject. Our public school system is necessary for the perpetuity of this country. Certain elements are fundamental, and when any nation forgets the worship of God and the education of the children its power is gone. We are centering our thoughts on school organization and not on individuals. Never were there so many good schools as may be found today. The communities must be in full sympathy with the school. The youth must walk in the paths of righteousness in the paths of their elders. If there is anything the matter with the school it is the lack of home discipline. Mr. Coughlin does not know where you do not need a best teacher. Good work should be recognized and brought to notice wherever found notwithstanding the recent especial emphasis given to primary teachers. In an ideal school one would wish to see many things. Good discipline, thorough recitation and alertness being prominent among them. Discipline means more than keeping order. Practical education is a broad subject. There are great problems on the side of culture against the great idea of the factory and the mill. More than to earn a living is essential to every man.

Again Mr. Putnam gave several notices. The principals of the county who are interested in athletics were asked to meet in the grand jury room. The auditing committee was to assemble at Mr. Putnam's office. The rural examinations will be held at the same time and places as the teachers' examinations. This is a correction to what is printed in the manual.

As on Wednesday, the institute was divided into three sections: High school teachers in upper hall with Mr. Denison as chairman, and Dr. Houck as lecturer. Primary teachers in the court room, Prof. George E. Rogers, chairman, were addressed by Superintendent Coughlin. The grammar and intermediate teachers in the auditorium, listened to Dr. Benedict. "Attention as an Art," was the theme. There must be a vital factor. In the personality of the teacher and the force of her character there is a great power. In successful work a teacher helps the child to study, shows him how to compare similarities and pick out differences. Often better attention will be gained by changing the conditions. Relations, new interests or a complete change of work will bring new thoughts and new desires to the child.

High School Section.

The subject for discussion in the High school section was, "Why do such a large proportion of eighth grade pupils fail to enter the High school?" Various reasons for this failure were given by principals of the schools in the county, and by Mr. Houck, Mr. Teitrick and Mr. Putnam. Lack of ambition, or ability on the part of the pupil; his lack of interest due to the monotony of gram mar school methods and often times, his lack of preparation for successful work were amongst the reasons advanced, but the one obstacle which was especially met within this county was the desire of the pupil to work in order to aid in the support of the family.

The question was then brought up. "Is it desirable for all pupils to enter the High school" and was answered in the negative. For some pupils it is not the most valuable education. It was suggested by Mr. Putnam the pupils should be urged to enter and to remain in the High school by the teacher and that much could be accomplished through his intercourse with the parents. The influence of the teacher should make itself felt in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades, and both in these grades and in the High school the teacher should carefully look up those who drop out of school. It was also suggested that a grammar school commencement would give the pupils a desire for High school work, but such methods should be used judiciously else the grammar school would become the refinishing school.

The last few moments were given to a discussion as to whether High school pupils should be permitted to repeat the work of the eighth grade in order to prepare for teachers' examinations. Although it is allowed in many schools some of the principals urged strongly that this custom be abandoned. It was also further urged that grammar school graduates should not be expected to pass examinations similar to those taken by the teachers of many years experience.

Primary Department.

In the Primary Department which met in the Court House was opened by a discussion led by Supt. Caughlin. Good and bad methods was the first topic. Method is an orderly and related series of exercises leading to self helpfulness. The most important work of a primary teacher is the teaching of reading word, phonetic and other methods were discussed. "How much written number work should be given in the first grade?" was a question asked. If in a graded school only enough for the general work. If in an ungraded school more exercises must be given to keep the pupils busy.

The vocabulary of geography must be learned. The definitions are needed as the pupils vocabulary is not full enough to express fully what he wishes to say. Writen and oral spelling are ways of testing spelling, not teaching it. Have pupils look at word then close the book and see if they can tell the different letters, not always in their order. Correct pronunciation is a help in spelling, also using words in sentences develops the child's mind. In answer to the question concerning the amount of reading a pupil in a second grade should do, it was thought that a paragraph or perhaps only a sentence. Better a little well done than a longer amount poorly read.

Thursday Afternoon.

The Thursday afternoon session began some time earlier than usual so that Dr. Houck might have a longer time for his last address. The session was opened by a short period of singing led by the Director of Music, Prof. March.

Dr. Henry Houck then began his interesting and instructive address. are those who do best work. It is better to have the good will and the love of the children. Dr. Houck expressed his pleasure in being with the teachers and his friends whom he has met here. He has made his reputation and has indeed lives up to it.

Superintendent Coughlin began his talks of the afternoon where he left off in the morning. Whatever would be put into perfect life he would like to put into education. Aside from the alertness and discipline in an an ideal school he would add the element of self helpfulness. In being self helpful a child is keeping those nearest and dearest to him. This is one ofthe important things that one can do for a child. Self directed activity is the first and very essential part of training the individual. Do everything possible to aid a child to depend upon his own ability. It is good for a child to buckle up against difficult tasks. This idea of self helpfulness leads directly to self support. Theory developed in school should point toward his self support. The home conditions now are very different from what they were many years ago. More things were taught in the home than are taught now. The industrial life has greatly changed. When boys and girls learn to do the little things and do them well and with the entire responsibility of those duties they have learned a great lesson in life. A child as well as a man is measured by his capacity. If a child is capable of doing a thing he must do it, must be measured up to his possibility. It is the confidence in man leads to the belief in God. The broad culture and the understanding of the great underlying principles of education are the foundation of the mastery of the art of training.

Principal DeLaney of Sayre who was presiding, announced Superintendent Stearns of Susquehanna county. Mr. Stearns advocates the spirit of sunshine and the right kind of work In the end this is always beneficial to both teacher and school.

A most inspiring period was then spent in singing a large number of the songs learned during the week Prof. March is a master hand as a musical director and his work at this institute has been most effective. The enthusiasm shown by the teachers is the best evidence of how he is appreciated. Their support could not be better.

"The Modern Teachers' Weapons" was the title of Mr. Teitrick's address which was his only talk Thursday He vividly described two or three schools which were governed very differently. These were fair illustrations that the various exercises mean something. They oil the machinery and forestall mischief by changing the thought. Vary these exercises occasionally by a biography, a story or something different. Start right in every detail and teaching will be easier. Every child is a law unto himself and each one must be studied by the teacher. That is one of her weapons. A lesson must be taught before it can be tested. The great educators of earth did not sit in judgment but first taught. One of the greatest weapons of a teacher is a sharp eye. This of course requires keen descretion. Good sense is the knack of seeing things as they are Perhaps another weapon seldom noticed is approbation. Who does not like to have his work approved? Besides all these there is the great help of the co-operation of the home. This is one of the strongest weapons. "Give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you."

Dr. Roselle's Lecture.

Thursday's lecture was by Dr. W Quay Roselle, who had for his subject: "Happy Thoughts on a Homely Theme." Dr. Roselle, who has been heard in Towanda before was at his best, and greatly pleased the large audience.

Friday Morning.

At the opening of the Teachers Institute Friday morning, a delightful half hour was given to the study and pleasure of music. Prof March is always enthusiastic and this enthusiasm is felt during every moment while singing. Every teacher is glad to be one of the great chorus of which he is the competent leader.

The devotional exercises of the morning were led by Frank S. Woolson, principal of the schools of Canton.

The first speaker of the morning was Superintendent Teitrick who talked on "Certificates of Proficency." These certificates are issued by the County Superintendent to teachers who have successfully taught two years. Mr. Teitrick believes that a teacher should deserve a certificate before she could by any possibility secure one of these certificates. A real teacher is one who is proficient in leadership. A teacher who can get things done. There should be a specific purpose under all work and effort When a high standard is required the class will usually live up to the requirements.

On the other hand a teacher should all the time endeavor to improve herself. Read not only professional books but the best literature. In the attendance at the sessions of the Institute and educational meetings and He left early that he might he in Harrisburg this morning to address an institute in that city where he knows a very large number of the teachers. A great teacher must be a good scholar and a good disciplinarian. Teaching becomes a delight when the school goes well. Those who love the work and the children local institutes a teacher shows her zeal and whether or not she is trying to attain proficiency. There is no time when a teacher can think herself beyond improvement.

Mrs. Stiles then spoke on "Mental Work." The theories of education have changed throughout the centuries. Today education has two great ends: The increase of knowledge and the increase in the power to use that knowledge. As the hand is trained to execute so the mind must have mental work to train, and assist his memory. Memory can't be trained unless it is used. Mrs. Stiles would require accurate definitions, accurate work whenever handed to the teacher. The world does not care how much a man knows but what he can do A child should express exactly what he wishes to express. Drawing helps the eye to see, the mind to hold and the hand to execute. Try to give the child power to clearly express what he knows. There is a plea for more mental work and less pencil work.

A long and very enjoyable period was spent in singing the now familiar songs which Prof March has so effectively and pleasingly led during the many singing seasons of the institute. Every teacher will regret that these glorious singing lessons are so nearly over.

During this time packages of manuals and supplies for each teacher were given out. Mr. Putnam gave several suggestions concerning the February meeting of teachers and directors, the school exhibit and the spelling contest.

Superintendent Caughlin then began his third lecture on "The Revival of the Art of Teaching," taking for his special theme, the ends and means in education. Many are advocating that a spindle and a loom should be placed in schools to train the child for the industrial life.

All of this industrial training limits a mental growth. It makes a man merely a cog in machinery, training his reflex activities only. It is the business of the school to counteract these tendencies. We need to feel this broad problem. Mr. Caughlin quoted many definitions of the end of education as given by the greatest minds of all ages. In all these the emphasis is upon the individual. It is a teacher's business to lift a child from materialism to the higher abstract ideas. Education is learning to think and the process of education must lead to thinking.

Friday Afternoon.

Although Prof. March was obliged to leave before the close of the institute the splendid effects of his work were left. Miss Morse of Athens led several songs at the opening of the last session yesterday.

County Superintendent Putnam spoke at length about the February meeting and the duty of each teacher to attend and arrouse interest in the district in this meeting. He asks reports in agriculture and further work done along that line. In attending the educational gatherings a teacher greatly helps her own professional standing.

The first speaker of the afternoon was Superintendent Caughlin. He selected for the main point of his talk the discipline of a school. He also added a few ideas to his talk of the morning. We measure means by the effects upon individuals. Care must be given to the position of every child every day. The special gifts of children should be noted and cultivated when a teacher reaches these in the right way she has unusual power and means of helpfulness. We should cultivate the child with every thought and effort in his behalf. Discipline is gained when a teacher has not used up her force. A delicate sense of the feelings for others is a most important factor in right discipline, scholarship is an essential element in good discipline. A teacher can stand up as a master when he knows what is expected. A teacher may be strict but must always be fair. Pure sympathy for humanity makes for self control. Inquire into the causes of failure with unusual care. Often some physical defects such as deafness and poor eyesight are the reasons why children cannot do what is expected of them. Assimilated knowledge is power. In summing up his talk Mr. Caughlin said that work educates.

As usual a few moments were given to singing which was enjoyed by all.

Resolutions.

Principal Rogers of Athens presented the following resolutions which were unanimously carried by the institute:

Be it Resolved by the teachers of Bradford county that whereas Normal instruction is a most effective means for improving the effectiveness of the teachers, that attendance at the normal schools should be encouraged by giving a certain amount of credit toward graduation in a Normal school for work done in accredited High schools.

Whereas, there is a lack of Normal instruction on the part of college graduates and others who teach in the high schools, that a normal college should be established by the state to prepare high school teachers.

Whereas, we recognize the importance of the teaching of agriculture and home economics in our public schools, that we appreciate the offer of State College to give a course of instruction free in these subjects and others next Summer, and that it will be the duty as well as interest of all teachers to attend so far as possible.

Whereas, the necessity of the co-operation of the home and school is recognized, that a parent-teacher association should be organized in every district.

Whereas, the instruction of the institute should be so arranged as to meet the needs of the teachers in all the grades of the schools, that the division of the institute into sections for a part of the work is a step in the right direction.

Whereas, the spelling contest of last year was a help in the teaching of spelling, and the school exhibit was an incentive to pupils to do their best in written work; that we as teachers of the county approve of, and co-operate in the holding of a similar contest and exhibit at the February meeting of the County Teachers' Association.

Whereas, it is provided in the school law "that before admission to a high school such non resident pupil whose tuition is paid by their district shall be examined and found qualified for high scool work" that such examination questions should be uniform and the examination papers be graded according to a uniform scale, throughout the county.

Whereas, there seems to be danger of going to extremes in vocational work to the sacrifice of the cultural studies and those studies which give breadth and power to the mind, that a danger signal should be sounded and teachers should insist that such technical work should be taken in connection with and subordinate to certain required studies of the regular school course.

Whereas, we feel that the instruction received in this institute should result in better work in our schools: Be it resolved that we put in practice so far as possible the things here suggested, and that the work in penmanship especially exhibited next February, be made to show the benefits of the instruction here received. We believe that this will be the most effective way of showing our appreciation of the efforts for our improvement by Superintendent Putman and the instructors who have addressed us.

Whereas, the people of Towanda have showed great hospitality and patience in admitting the teachers to their homes and great interest in attending evening lectures and entertainments, that we thank them for their efforts in our behalf. George E. Rogers, chairman.

Closing Session.

Mrs. Stiles answered a number of questions which had been handed to her.

Prof. G. W. Peffer made the report of the auditing committee. The chairman of committee on reading, Principal Humphries recommended the addition of one book to the already long list, "How to Study and Teaching How to Study" by McMurry. He also recommended the following books: "Helps in Industrial, Manual Training and Domestic Science" written by Irvine Shepherd may be gained by writing N. E. A. Pub. Co. Winona, Minn., asking for the issue of 1905. These books on agriculture were suggested," "Practice Agriculture," Wilkinson, "Among County Schools," Kern Gunn and Co.; "Elementary Agriculture," Hatch & Hazlewood, Rowe Peteram & Co., Chicago; "Rural School Agriculture," Davis, Orange Judd & Co.; "100 Lesson in El Agriculture," Nolan, Acme Pub. Co., Morgantown, W. Va.; "100 Experiments in Agriculture," Crosby, U. S. Dept. Agriculture.

Mr. Rogers gave the dates of May 6 and 7, 1910, as the time when the examinations for perminent certificates will be held.

The last address of the afternoon and of the institute was well given by Superintendent Teitrick. The great business of youth is to prepare for life. Train pupils into habits of industry. Genius is three-fourths hard work. There is only one way to be successful that is to work. Mr. Teitrick told a great many instances concerning and illustrating this truth. Marvelous possibilities are before the youth of today.

Ladies Orchestra.

The last entertainment of the Institute course was given in the opera house Friday night when the Commonwealth Ladies Orchestra of Boston appeared. The concert was a splendid one, in fact many people said it was the best entertainment of the course.

Oleo and Butter Men at War.

Says the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin: "A fight to the finish is likely to take place between the farmers and hucksters who sell butter on the curbstone market in this city and the oleo dealers who handle the substitute product. If the threatened "unpleasantness" does really ensue, the patrons of the market will benefit. Prices of butter will flop downward, and it is quite likely that the handlers of the oleo will meet their friends from the rural district, and go them one better regarding prices. Both parties are doing considerable talking at present and there is no telling when hostilities will break out. The oleo people say the farmer cannot start "trouble" too soon to please them. They say they are ready for the fray and that the manufacturers of the goods they are handling will back them to the end. They say they are in the field to introduce oleo in this section of the state and they intend to do so with the aid of the makers of the butter substitute."

MUCH MONEY OWED STATE SAYS SHEATZ.

Corporations Have Defaulted in Payment of Nearly $3,000,000.

By having forwarded to the attorney-general's department a list of about 6,000 corporations which owe money to the commonwealth, State Treasurer John O. Sheatz has completed a computing up of the books of the state treasury department which brings all the accounts upon the ledgers into a concrete form.

Mr. Sheatz began this work soon after he assumed office in May, 1908. It necessitated a search of the records for several decades. Last March a list of domestic corporations was forwarded to the atotrney-general's department showing that they owed an aggregate of $2,868,841.53.

The period covered in the search is previous to Nov. 1, 1908. Up to that date, foreign corporations as shown in the statement just issued owed the state a total of $480,013.33. Corporations which have ceased to exist, which have been sold by the sheriff, or which have been ousted by judicial decree, owed $271,833.90 Limited liability companies owed $37,967.30.

The purpose of this latest letter, as well as of the letter of last March, is to have all accounts collected which can be collected and to have such as are uncollectible returned to the treasury department to be removed from the books.

Revival Meetings.

Revival meeting will continue every night this week except Saturday at the First Baptist church conducted by Rev. P. I. Frey and wife. Song service begins at 7:30. The Chapman and Alexander hymn books are in use. "The Glory Song" and "The King's Business" are among the popular hymns. Plans are being pushed for an entire Winter of Evangelistic meetings in Towanda, and it is expected that Evangelists from different parts of the state will assist.

Defendant Discharged.

A threatening to kill case from North Towanda township, has been dismissed by 'Squire Meredith. Another charge was preferred before a justice at Burlington, and bail was given for court.

COMMISSIONERS MEEHAN TALKED ON FISH CULTURE.

Head of the Department of Fisheries Gave an Interesting Talk.

Commissioner W. E. Meehan, head of the Department of Fisheries of Pennsylvania, gave a most interesting talk before a meeting of nearly 50 Towanda fishermen in the grand jury room last evening.

Commissioner Meehan is greatly interested in the stocking of the streams with fish, and the protection of them after planting, them by organization of fish protective associations and clubs. He advocated the abolishment of the fish basket or eel weir and spear or gigs, and urged the affiliation of local organizations with the state society. By June 1 he expects there will be 60,000 members of the two most prominent organizations, the United Sportsmen and the State Sportsmen's association.

The commissioner told in considerable detail of the methods of hatching and planting fish fry in the waters of Pennsylvania, and gave some statistics that proved most interesting. The eight hatcheries now being operated will turn out this year one billion fry. Last year nine million trout fry were hatched, and this year the number will reach 15 million.

The fish commission has restored the whitefish industry in Lake Erie and greatly increased the lake herring industry. Mr. Meehan outlined the need for more wardens and better protection, and told briefly of the department's work in ridding the streams of pollution. Six counties are now practically free from pollution.

A number of questions were asked regarding planting and the applications for fry and the meeting proved a most interesting and profitable one.

Diseased Kidney Removed.

At the Mercy hospital in Wilkes-Barre the other day, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald, former residents of Towanda and Bernice, was operated upon for the removal of a diseased kidney. A large lump formed in the child's side, and the doctors were baffled for a long time. The doctors at the Mercy hospital advised an operation, and when the side was opened, a large abcess was found on the kidney which was removed. The kidney and abcess nearly filled a quart jar. The case is an unusual one, and the diseased organ which was removed from the child was exhibited at the meeting of the Luzerne county Medical society. The child is gaining strength slowly. There is a large cavity in the side from where the kidney was removed.

Slight Blaze.

Fire of unknown origin in the borough building on Walnut street, called out the fire department about 9:45 Thursday night. Mrs. Blake living on North Main street, saw the blaze which appeared to start from the outside, and turned in an alarm. The companies responded promptly, and a stream from the Lin-ta hose soon quenched the blaze. The damage is not great. The building which is owned by the borough is used for the third ward polling place and a meeting room for the Hawes hose company.

Grading Inter-State Fair Grounds.

LADIES CARRY SUN SHADES; YOUTHS SWIM ON NOV. 11.

"Good Old Summertime" Scenes Witnessed in City of Promise Thursday

You can talk about California, rave over Florida, go dippy on Bermuda, lose sleep pining for the pines of Carolina, spend a small fortune for a few weeks' stay in Sunny Italy, but what mortal with the same amount of sense and appreciation of the good and beautiful which God gave even the birds would exchange Northern Pennsylvania, and the glorious climate to be found in the City of Promise for any of the far farmed "happy spots" named above? Not one, you will gamble when you know all.

The weather has been gloriously invigorating for some time, and Thursday the call of the balmy mountain air got in the blood, and the result is here told. Shortly before noon, people along the river front were startled, yet amused to see two youths sporting in the limpid waters of the beautiful Susquehanna river. Think of it—on the eleventh day of November, 1909, the weather and water warm enough for bathing. That's what 'twas and judging from the laughter following each dive the bathers found it very enjoyable.

But this is not all. Half an hour after the bathers were attracting attention, two dashing damsels were seen perambulating down the "mall" of this City of Promise, with one carrying a dainty parasol to shield her from the rays of the sun, while the other was toying with a fan—toying with a fan, mind you, and on the eleventh day of November, 1909, within half a mile of where two youths were bathing in the river.

Not an overcoat was in sight, and one clothier without fear arranged a display of straw hats which were taken in toward evening.

In the cigar stores and barber shops, the patrons asked for issues of newspapers of the month of July and August and then spent an hour or so reading dead baseball news, just to keep in with the spirit of the weather. Walter M. Shelton, manager of the Towanda baseball team of the past season, laid aside a big overcoat, and was about to call up Manager Palmer of the Troy team for a game on Saturday, when someone opened the back door allowing a gust of wind to blow through which was the first chilly breeze felt in this part for some time, and had the effect of putting off the game until next summer at least.

Present indications point in the direction of a big outdoor picnic on Table Rock mountain on the afternoon of Christmas day, unless through unforseen circumstances the weather should change, and cause a postponement until New Years day.

'Tis great to be alive in the City of Promise.

Political Gossip From Tioga.

A bit of Tioga county political gossip of interest over in Bradford county, is that Auditor General R. K. Young of Wellsboro, whose official term expires next May, may be a candidate for congress against the present incumbent, Hon. William B. Wilson. Under ordinary conditions Mr. Young's nomination would be equivalent to an election. The re-election of Mr. Wilson last fall was due to the disfavor with which the Republican candidate, Hon. Elias Deemer, was regarded by many Republicans.

Odd Case.

Just because Mike Berris, of Jessup, sank his teeth into a half dollar to prove to an associate that his incisors were strong, Justice John Judge held him for court, when the case was brought before him. When the transcript for indictment, charging Berris with biting a United States coin came before the grand jury at Scranton Wednesday the case was thrown out of court.

Contemptible Work.

Great indignation prevails in St. Marys, Potter county, over the despoliation of over a dozen dresses in one night by the use of ink from "squirt guns," in the hands of some debased and contemptible creature that has no place in a civilized community. Every effort is being made to apprehend the despoiler and when accomplished, the ladies whose gowns were ruined will force a prosecution.

Partnership Dissolved.

Says the Monroeton Enterprise: "The well known firm of Minard, Grace & Shiner was dissolved last week when Mr. Minard sold his interest to his partners. He has been cutting meat in Monroeton for nearly twenty years and is arranging to take a well earned rest."

Bean Bake.

Spalding Camp No. 124 Sons of Veterans will serve their first annual Bean Bake in the G. A. R. hall at LeRaysville, on Friday, Nov. 19. Dinner and supper will both be served. Everybody invited. In the evening there will be a free entertainment. Come and enjoy yourself.

BURLINGTON TOWNSHIP ROAD CASE GIVEN AN AIRING.

Supervisors of Burlington Township Claim to Have Complied With Law.

The case against Messrs. Madigan, Nichols and Luther, road supervisors of Burlington township, charged with the violation of the road laws which require the removal of loose stones from the public highways, was heard beore 'Squire Meredith Thursday. After hearing the case, adjournment was taken to next Friday at which time the attorneys will make their arguments.

The supervisors contend that they are not guilty of the violation charged, claiming that they have obeyed out the law. Their attorneys also set up the claim that the supervisors are not guilty of even a technical violation of the law, contending that the second section of the act of 1901 is repealed and supplied by the act of 1905, and the keeping of the highways free from stone is the work of the road master and not the supervisors. The roads of Burlington township are now, and have been in first class condition, and free from loose stones, is also claimed in defense.

Benjamin Kuykendall, Jr., and Stephen H. Smith, Esq., are the attorneys for the defendant supervisors while I. McPhearson, Esq., represents the commonwealth.

WIFE SEES HIM SLAIN.

Old Man Shot Down at His Home After a Quarrel.

Rankin Edwards, a respected farmer 70 years old, was shot and instantly killed Tuesday night at his home near Muncy, and Ellis Deeter, a quarryman, is accused of the homicide.

Edwards had gone to the home of Deeter's brother on business connected with the slate quarry, and a quarrel followed. Edwards drove to his home, and was followed there by Ellis Deeter, armed with a shotgun and a revolver. When he entered the farm house hot words were exchanged, whereupon Deeter, it is alleged, fired the load of shot into the aged farmer's neck, severing the jugular vein.

The wife of the murdered man witnessed the tragedy.

Fourth Class Postmaster Examination.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces than on Saturday, December 18, 1909, an examination will be held at Laquin, Pa., for the position of fourth class postmaster of class (b) at Barclay, Pa. The compensation of the postmaster at this office was $101 for the last fiscal year. Age limit, 21 years and over on the date of the examination, with the exception that in a State where women are declared by statute to be of full age for all purposes at 18 years, women 18 years of age on the date of the examination will be admitted.

Applicants must reside within the territory supplied by the post office named above. The examination is open to all citizens of the United States who can comply with the requirements.

Application forms and full information concerning the requirements of the examination can be secured from the postmaster at Barclay, Pa., or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Held For Court.

On the strength of a confession made by James McCracken of Towanda, who was arrested on complaint of H. J. Bacon of Powell, charged with the larceny of a small savings bank containing $17, Bert Haines and Ralph Edsall of Powell were arrested Thursday by Constable Hollon on a warrant issued by 'Squire Meredith. They are charged with complicity in the theft of the bank, being implicated by McCracken in his confession. They were released on bail for a hearing next Thursday.

Closed on Account of Scarlet Fever.

The Durell Centre school, taught by Miss Margaret Barrett, is closed this week on account of scarlet fever which has broken out among the pupils, three being ill with the disease at present. As the entire school was exposed, the directors deemed it advisable to close the school for a week at least.

In New Form.

Smull's legislative handbook for 1909 has been issued in an entirely new form. It contains 1,014 pages, 40 more than last year, but last year's book was one inch thicker than the new one. The reduction is due to the use of thin paper.

DURELL.

Austin H. Benjamin of Durell returned home after visiting relatives and friends at Overton.

Mrs. John A. Benjamin and daughter Anna of Durell spent Sunday with Mrs. William Cranmer at Powell.

John A. Benjamin and son Wayne of Durell were shopping in Towanda Saturday.

Wonderful Membership.

Towanda members of the Modern Woodmen of America are justly proud of their organization, for to enroll 1,059,221 men as members of one society is a wonderful achievement. This means that one out of every nineteen voters in the whole United States must become members and yet this is just what has been done by Modern Woodmen of America, as that number of members were in good standing at the close of business on the last day of September. During September 108 new camps were chartered making, on October 1, a total of 13,870 local camps. During the month 9,333 benefit certificates were issued and 8,609 men became members. The local membership of the order is steadily increasing.

Air as Fuel for Autos.

William Matrolis, of New Philadelphia, Pa., claims to have invented an automobile that runs without fuel, generating its power of propulsion from the air while the machine is in motion. For three years Matrolis has been working on the problem behind closed doors, and announced that he has perfected his invention. The car, he explains, gathers its power from the air through the application of new mechanical principles. His invention, he says, will revolutionize the automobile industry.

Nervy Burglar.

It was a nervy burglar that broke into a house at Scranton a couple of nights ago. When a maid discovered him wandering about the halls and inquired who was there, he told her not to speak so loud, for fear she would wake the family. The bold remark filled the maid with consternation and the burglar escaped.

Painfully Burned.

While using kerosene to hurry a fire Friday, Miss Katherine Bowen was very painfully burned. The oil flashed up, in her face knocking her down. Her eyes, face and hair were badly scorched, but it is believed there will be no disfigurement.
